HAVE STATES ANY RIGHTS?—Unable to control the convention which is to revise the constitution of Maryland, the radicals of that State threaten to appeal to Congress for intervention, that federal power may shape matters to their taste. In the same spirit, radical journals in Tennessee are declaring, in advance, that the approaching election will not be permitted to change the State Executive. If Browlow cannot be re-elected by votes, they declare Congress may be relied upon to come to the rescue, and to declare him Governor by virtue of its will. The Nashville Press and Times says that "he who supposes that, Etheridge, even if elected, would be suffered by Congress to rule Tennessee, knows little of its iron will and determination."

Without entering into the merits or demerits of the candidates, it is impossible to observe with complacency these recurring indications of a desire to fall back upon Congress for whatever may be necessary to secure radical mastery. The policy of Congress toward the South is no longer regarded by the extremists as exceptional, but is applauded and justified as equally applicable to the border States, if they can be made radical in no other way. For the present, Maryland and Tennessee are held to be fit subjects of congressional treatment. But if these States, why not Kentucky, which is perversely anti-radical? And if Kentucky, why not also Connecticut? If Etheridge is not to be allowed to take his seat in the event of his election, how happens it that Governor Engleah has been allowed to deliver his inaugural? And if Maryland may not revise its own constitution, why should New York be suffered to exercise the privilege? The principle is the same in all the cases. The right is the same in all. And the fact that the extremists shrink from the application of their view to all is a sufficient reason for saying that it should not be applied to any.—N. Y. Times.

PROCEEDINGS.

HALL OF THE HOUSE OF DELEGATES.

WEDNESDAY, May 8th, 1867.

A PROCLAMATION.

BY

THE GOVERNOR OF MARYLAND.

STATE OF MARYLAND, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

Whereas, by an Act of the General Assembly of Maryland, passed at January session, 1867, entitled "An Act to provide for taking the sense of the people of this State on the call of a Convention to form a new Constitution and Form of Government, and for assembling the members thereof," it was enacted that an election should be held as provided by said Act to take the sense of the people on the question of the call of the Convention, and to elect delegates thereto in case said call was sustained by a majority of the votes cast.

And whereas, it is by said Act made the duty of the Governor to count and cast up the number of ballots cast at said election for and against a Convention, and the blank ballots cast, and the ballots cast for delegates to said Convention, and if it should thereupon appear that more votes had been cast in favor of the call of a Convention than against such call, to issue his proclamation declaring the persons having the majority in the several counties and in the city of Baltimore, respectively, to be elected to said Convention, and for the assembling of the members thereof;

And whereas, the returns of said election have been received from the city of Baltimore and the several counties of the State, and upon counting and casting up the ballots which, according to said returns, were cast at the election held for said purpose on the 10th day of April instant, it appears that the whole number of votes cast was 58,718, of which 34,534 were for a Convention, and 24,136 against a Convention, and

48 blank ballots ; and it therefore appearing that more votes have been cast in favor of the call of a Convention than against the call of a Convention—

Now therefore, I, Thomas Swann, Governor of the State of Maryland, in obedience to the requirements of the Act of Assembly aforesaid, do by this my proclamation declare and make known that the persons having the majority in the several counties and the city of Baltimore, respectively, have been duly elected delegates to said Convention, and that the Convention authorized by said Act will be held in the city of Annapolis, on the SECOND WEDNESDAY OF MAY next, being the eighth day of said month, where the said delegates will, on that day, assemble to enter upon the discharge of the duties prescribed by the Act aforesaid.

[SEAL,] Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Maryland, at the city of Annapolis, this twentieth day of April, in the year of our Lord, 1867.

John Wethered, of Baltimore county; Walter Mitchell, of Charles county; and George William Brown, of Baltimore city.

The President addressed the Convention as follows:

Gentlemen of the Convention:

This is a most distinguished honor. I thank you profoundly, proudly thank you. A partial constituency conferred the high privilege upon me of a seat upon this floor, to partake in your deliberations and labors on a subject of the highest concern to themselves and to the State. Appreciating as I do the responsibilities of that position, and the exalted characters of the members of this body, I feel that my position on the floor was fully equal to the measure of my deserving. The choice which has just fallen upon me to preside over your deliberations is, according to my taste and in my judgment, the highest to which a citizen of Maryland could aspire, or any authority bestow. I am, therefore, gentlemen, totally without words to express as I would my sense of your favor.

It would not be becoming in me to attempt to foreshadow the result of the proceedings of this Convention by reference in detail to any of its measures. They are unknown to me. It is only for me to say that you have been called here to frame a new Constitution or to adopt that which has had an existence de facto here for a brief space, and to express the opinion that you will discharge the duty that has been imposed upon you in such a manner as to promote the peace and order of the State, and to reflect lasting honor on yourselves. I trust, gentlemen, that the proceedings of this Convention will be marked by that harmony which should prevail among men of common opinions, and upon an occasion of so great magnitude.

I bring to this position no experience in reference to the duties of the chair. I shall have, therefore, gentlemen, to anticipate that indulgence from the members of this body, which their partiality has disclosed. I thank you, gentlemen, for the honor you have conferred upon me.

On motion of Mr. Maulsby,

A committee of three was appointed by the President to wait upon the Hon. D. R. Magruder, Judge of the Circuit Court for Anne Arundle county, and request him to attend the Convention and administer the oath of office to the President, Whereupon the President appointed the following committee for that purpose.

Messrs. Robt. C. Barry, of Baltimore county, William P. Maulsby, of Frederick county, and George M. Gill, of Baltimore city.

After a brief absence, the committee returned with Judge Magruder.

On motion by Mr. Wickes, of Kent county,

A committee of three was appointed by the President to ascertain what oath the President, delegates and officers of the Convention was required to take; and to report to-morrow morning at the opening of the Convention.

Whereupon the President appointed

Messrs. Wickes, of Kent county, George William Brown, of Baltimore city, Albert Ritchie, of Baltimore city.

On motion by Mr. Maulsby,

Judge Magruder was requested to attend at 11 o'clock, A. M. to-morrow, to administer the oath of office to the President.

On motion by Mr. Wickes,

The Convention adjourned to meet to-morrow at 11 o'clock, A. M.

THURSDAY, May 9th, 1867.

The Convention met.

Hon. Richard B. Carmichael, President elect, in the chair, and James R. Howison, Esq., acting as Secretary.

Prayer by Rev. Mr. Leech.

Mr. Wickes, chairman Select Committee, submitted the following

REPORT:

The committee further report that said oath should be administered to the President elect of the Convention by some judge or justice of the peace of the State, and should then in conformity with the third section of the sixty-eighth article of the Code of Public General Laws be administered by said President to the other members of the Convention, and to the officers thereof, and that said oath, after having been administered as aforesaid, should be subscribed by said President, members and officers of the Convention respectively, in conformity with the provisions of said article of the Code.

JOSEPH A. WICKES,
GEO. WM. BROWN,

Which was read and adopted.

Mr. Jones, Chairman of the Committee to consider and report upon the Declaration of Rights, made the following report:

THE DECLARATION OF RIGHTS.

We, the people of the State of Maryland, grateful to Almighty God for our civil and religious liberty, and taking into our serious consideration the best means of establishing a good Constitution in this State for the sure foundation and permanent security thereof, declare:

ARTICLE 1. That all government of right originates from the people, is founded in compact only, and instituted solely for the good of the whole, and they have at all times, the inalienable right to alter, reform, or abolish their form of government, in such manner as they may deem expedient.

Art. 2. The Constitution of the United States and the laws made, or which shall be made in pursuance thereof, and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States are and shall be the supreme law of the State; and the Judges of this State, and all the people of this State are and shall be bound thereby, anything in the Constitution or law of this State to the contrary notwithstanding.

Art. 3. The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution thereof nor prohibited by it to the State, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people thereof.

Art. 4. That the people of this State ought to have the sole and exclusive right of regulating the internal government and police thereof.

Art. 5. That the inhabitants of Maryland are entitled to the common law of England, and the trial by jury according to the course of that law, and to the benefit of such of the English statutes as existed on the fourth day of July, seventeen hundred and seventy-six, and which by experience have been found applicable to their local and other circumstances, and have been introduced, used and practiced by the courts of law or equity, and also all Acts of Assembly in force on the first day of June, eighteen hundred and sixty-seven, except such as may have since expired or may be inconsistent with the provisions of this Constitution, subject, nevertheless, to the revision of and amendment or repeal by the Legislature of this State; and the inhabitants of Maryland are also entitled to all property derived to them from or under the charter granted by his Majesty Charles the First, to Cæcilius Calvert, Baron of Baltimore.

Art. 6. That all persons invested with the Legislative or Executive powers of Government are the trustees of the public and as such accountable for their conduct; wherefore, whenever the ends of government are perverted, and public liberty manifestly endangered, and all other means of redress are ineffectual, the people may, and of right ought to reform the old or establish a new government, the doctrine of non-resistance against arbitrary power and oppression is absurd, slavish and destructive of the good and happiness of mankind.

Art. 7. That the right of the people to participate in the Legislature is the best security of liberty, and the foundation of all free government; for this purpose elections ought to be free and frequent, and every white male citizen having the qualifications prescribed by the Constitution, ought to have the right of suffrage.

Art. 8. That the Legislative, Executive and Judicial powers of government ought to be forever separate and distinct from each other; and no person exercising the functions of one of said departments, shall assume or discharge the duties of any other.

Art. 9. That no power of suspending laws or the execution of laws, unless by, or derived from the Legislature ought to be exercised or allowed.

Art. 10. That freedom of speech and debate or proceedings in the Legislature, ought not to be impeached in any court of judicature.

Art. 11. That Annapolis be the place of meeting of the Legislature, and the Legislature ought not to be convened or held at any other place but from evident necessity.

Art. 12. That for redress of grievances and for amending and strengthening and preserving the laws, the Legislature ought to be frequently convened.

Art. 13. That every man hath a right to petition the Legislature for the redress of grievances in a peaceable and orderly manner.

Art. 14. That no aid, charge, tax, burthen or fees, ought to be rated or levied under any pretence without the consent of the Legislature.

Art. 15. That the levying of taxes by poll is grievous and oppressive and ought to be prohibited; that paupers ought not to be assessed for the support of the Government, but every other person in the State, or person holding property therein, ought to contribute his proportion of public taxes for the support of the government according to his actual worth in real or personal property; yet fines, duties, or taxes may properly and justly be imposed or laid with a political view for the good government and benefit of the community.

Art. 16. That sanguinary laws ought to be avoided as far as it is consistant with the safety of the State, and no law to inflict cruel and unusual pains and penalties ought to be made in any case or at any time hereafter.

Art. 17. That retrospective laws punishing acts committed before the existence of such laws and by them only declared criminal, are oppressive, unjust and incompatible with liberty, wherefore no ex post facto law ought to be made.

Art. 18. That no law to attaint particular persons of treason or felony ought to be made in any case or at any time hereafter.

Art. 19. That every man for any injury done to him in his person or property ought to have remedy by the course of the law of the land and ought to have justice and right, freely without sale, fully without any denial and speedily without delay, according to the law of the land.

Art. 20. That the trial of facts where they arise is one of the greatest securities of the lives, liberties and estate of the people.

Art. 21. That in all criminal prosecutions every man hath a right to be informed of the accusation against him ; to have a copy of the indictment or charge in due time, if required to prepare for his defence, to be allowed counsel, to be confronted with the witnesses against him, to have process for his witnesses, to examine the witnesses for and against him on oath and to a speedy trial by an impartial jury without whose unanimous consent he ought not to be found guilty.

Art. 22. That no man ought to be compelled to give evidence against himself in a criminal case.

Art. 23. That no man ought to be taken, or imprisoned, or disseized of his freehold, liberties, or privileges, or outlawed, or exiled, or in any manner destroyed or deprived of his life, liberty or property, but by the judgment of his peers or by the law of the land.

Art. 24. Slavery shall not be permitted in this State.

Art. 25. That excessive bail ought not to be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel or unusal punishment inflicted by the courts of law.

Art. 26. That all warrants without oath or affirmation, to search suspected places, or to seize any person or property, are grievous and oppressive, and all general warrants to search suspected places or to apprehend suspected persons without naming or describing the place or the person in special are illegal and ought not to be granted.

Art. 27. That no conviction shall work corruption of blood or forfeiture of estate.

Art. 28. That a well regulated militia is the proper and natural defence of a free government.

Art. 29. That standing armies are dangerous to liberty, and ought not to be raised or kept up without the consent of the Legislature.

Art. 30. That in all cases and at all times the military ought to be under strict subordination to, and control of the civil power.

Art. 31. That no soldier shall in time of peace be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner, nor in time of war, except in the manner prescribed by law.

Art. 32. That no person except regular soldiers, marines, and mariners in the service of this State or militia when in actual service ought, in any case, be subject to or punishable by martial law.

Art. 33. That the independency and uprightness of judges are essential to the impartial administration of justice and a great security to the rights and liberties of the people; wherefore, the judges shall not be removed except for misbehavior on conviction in a court of law or by the Governor, upon the address of the General Assembly; provided, that two-thirds of all the members of each House concur in such address. No judge shall hold any other office civil, or military, or political trust or employment of any kind whatsoever, under the Constitution or laws of this State or of the United States, or any of them, or receive fees or perquisites of any kind for the discharge of his official duties.

Art. 34. That a long continuance in the Executive departments of power or trust is dangerous to liberty; a rotation, therefore, in those departments is one of the best securities of permanent freedom.

Art. 35. That no person ought to hold at the same time more than one office of profit created by the Constitution or laws of this State; nor ought any person in public trust to receive any present from any foreign Prince or State or from the the United States or any of them, without the approbation of this State.

Art. 36. That as it is the duty of every man to worship God in such manner as he thinks most acceptable to Him; all persons are equally entitled to protection in their religious liberty; wherefore, no person ought by any law to be molested in his person or estate on account of his religious persuasion or profession or for his religious practice, unless under the color of religion any man shall disturb the good order, peace or safety of the State, or shall infringe the laws of morality, or injure others in their natural, civil or religious rights; nor ought any person to be compelled to frequent or maintain or contribute, unless on contract, to maintain any place of worship or any ministry; nor shall any person be deemed incompetent as a witness or juror who believes in the existence of God, and that under his dispensation such person will be held morally accountable for his acts and be rewarded or punished therefor, either in this world or the world to come, nor shall any person be deemed incompetent as a witness on account of race or color.

Art. 37. That no other test or qualification ought to be required on admission to any office of trust or profit than such oath of office and qualification as may be prescribed by this Constitution or by the laws of the State and a declaration of belief in the Christian religion or in the existence of God and in a future state of rewards and punishments.

Art. 38. That every gift, sale or devise of land, to any minister, public teacher or preacher of the gospel, as such, or to any religious sect, order or denomination, or to or for the support, use, or benefit of, or in trust for any minister, public teacher or preacher of the gospel as such, or any religious sect, order or denomination, and every gift or sale of goods or chattels to go in succession or to take place after the death of the seller or donor, to or for such support, use or benefit; and, also every devise of goods or chattels to, or for the support, use or benefit of any minister, public teacher or preacher of the gospel, as such, or any religious sect, order or denomination without the prior or subsequent sanction of the Legislature, shall be void; except always, any sale, gift, lease or devise of any quantity of land not exceeding five acres, for a church, meeting-house or other house of worship, or parsonage, or for burying ground, which shall be improved, enjoyed or used only for such purpose; or such sale, gift, lease or devise shall be void.

Art. 39. That the manner of administering an oath or affirmation to any person ought to be such as those of the religious persuasion, profession or denomination of which he is a member generally esteem the most effectual confirmation by the attestation of the Divine Being.

Art. 40. That the liberty of the press ought to be inviolably preserved; that every citizen of the State ought to be allowed to speak, write and publish his sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of that privilege.

Art. 41. That monopolies are odious, contrary to the spirit of a free government and the principles of commerce, and ought not to be suffered.

Art. 42. That no title of nobility or hereditary honors ought to be granted in this State.

Art. 43. That the Legislature ought to encourage the diffusion of knowledge and virtue, the extension of a judicious system of general education, the promotion of literature, the arts, sciences, agriculture, commerce and manufactures and the general melioration of the condition of the people.

Art. 44. That the provisions of the Constitution of the United States and of this State, apply as well in time of war as in time of peace, and any departure therefrom or violation thereof under the plea of necessity or any other plea, is subversive of good government, and tends to anarchy and despotism.

Art. 45. This enumeration of rights shall not be construed to impair or deny others retained by the people,

A motion to strike out being lost, shall preclude neither amendment nor a motion to strike out or insert. No motion or proposition on a subject different from that under consideration shall be admitted under color of amendment.

Rule 42.—All questions, except on the final passage of a report, or a motion to suspend the Rules, or those otherwise herein provided for, shall be determined by a majority of the members present; those dividing in the affirmative rising in their places, those in the negative continuing in their seats, and so vice versa, until a decision by the President.

Rule 43.—The question on the final passage of any subject matter shall always be determined by yeas and nays, which shall be recorded on the Journal; and unless it shall thus appear that a majority of the whole number of members elected to the Convention have voted in the affirmative, the subject matter voted on shall be declared rejected.

Rule 44.—When a question has once been decided in the affirmative or negative, a motion for reconsideration shall be in order, at any time thereafter, if made by one member and seconded by two others who voted in the majority; but should a report, on its final passage be declared rejected for the want of a majority of the members elected, the motion for reconsideration may be made by one member and seconded by two others who voted in either the affirmative or negative; and no motion for reconsideration shall be postponed or laid on the table.

Rule 45.—Petitions, memorials and other papers addressed to the Convention, shall be presented by the President, or by a member in his place; and the object of all petitions and memorials shall be endorsed on the back, and entered on the Journal.

Rule 46.—The unfinished business in which the Convention was engaged at the preceding adjournment, shall have the preference in the orders of the day; and no motion or any other business shall be received without the special leave of the Convention, until the former is disposed of.

Rule 47.—The Rules of Parliamentary Practice shall govern the Convention in all cases to which they are applicable, and in which they are not inconsistent with the standing Rules and Orders of the Convention.

Rule 48.—Upon calls of the Convention, or in taking the yeas and nays on any question, the names of the members shall be called alphabetically.

Rule 49.—The standing rules of the Convention shall not be suspended except by a vote of at least two-thirds of the members present.

Rule 50.—Any fifteen members, (including the President) shall be authorized to compel the attendance of the members.

Rule 51.—No committee shall sit during the sitting of the Convention without special leave.

Rule 52.—When a blank is not filled up, and different sums, numbers or terms shall be proposed, the question shall be taken on the largest sum or number, and on the longest time.

Rule 53.—After a report of any committee, embodying proposed provisions for the Constitution has passed through its second reading, the question shall then be put by the President of the Convention, "shall this report be engrossed for a third reading?" After any report of a committee has passed to a third reading, it shall not be in order to amend the same, except by the consent of the majority of the members elected to the Convention.

Which was adopted.

Mr. Howison, Chairman of the Committee upon Claims, submitted the following

REPORT:

The Committee on Claims have carefully considered the several subjects embraced in the order of the Convention, of the 17th instant, and respectfully submit the following report:

The Act of Assembly, by virtue of which this Convention is assembled, provides that the pay of its members shall be five dollars per diem and mileage ; it empowers the Convention to appoint such officers as may be necessary for the despatch of its business, and to fix the compensation of its president and officers.

Without discussing the question as to whether the Convention is authorized by this Act to establish rates of mileage for its members and officers; the Committee are of opinion, that the rates established by an old Act of Assembly which have not been departed from at any general session of the Legislature, or in the cases of the two Conventions which have been held since the year 1850, to the present time, are the proper rates of mileage to be allowed and paid to the members and officers of this Convention.

This table of rates may go back far beyond the year 1850; the Committee did not inspect the journal of accounts beyond that time, regarding a practice of seventeen years as a safe precedent for their action.

The Speakers of the House of Delegates of the sessions of 1866 and 1867 received an allowance of ten dollars per diem. The Committee recommend that the same rate of compensation be allowed to the President of this Convention, and that the Secretary and Assistant Secretary be each allowed the sum of eight dollars per diem for their services, and the same allowance for mileage as is received by the members of the Convention; and they further recommend that the per diem and mileage of the other officers of the Convention be the same as is received by the members.

In view of the very liberal recommendations which the Committee have thought proper to make in behalf of the officers, they trust that the Convention will not hereafter entertain any proposition for extra compensation.

The Committee also recommend that the President have power to appoint a Revising Clerk, chosen with special reference to his capacity and fitness for the office, whose duty it shall be to revise, arrange and engross, as the same shall be passed by the Convention, the Articles and Sections of the New Constitution; and also, shall keep the said record at all times open for the inspection and information of the members of the Convention. It shall also be his duty to revise the printing of the Journal of Proceedings and reports of committees, so as to insure correctness, and to make an index of the same.

The Committee are also of the opinion that the services of two additional folders are required, and they recommend that the President have power to appoint them. The work in the folding room is now much behind hand, and it does not appear to be possible to keep it up with the force now employed.

The title Committee on Claims, does not seem to be appropriate in this Convention, and the Committee recommend that it should hereafter be styled the Committee on Accounts.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

JAS. R. HOWISON.
B. B. CHAMBERS,
T. H. HUBBARD,
WILLIAM JANVIER,
ALFRED SPATES,
HENRY A. SILVER,
E. WHITMAN,
HARRY W. DORSEY,

Which was read.

The Committee also recommend that the President have power to appoint a Revising Clerk, chosen with special reference to his capacity and fitness for the office, whose duty it shall be to revise, arrange and engross, as the same shall be passed by the Convention, the articles and sections of the New Constitution, and who shall keep the said record at all times open for the information of the members of the Convention. It shall also be his duty to revise the printing of the Journal of Proceedings and Reports of Committees, so as to assure correctness, and to make an index of the same ;

Pending the consideration of which,

Mr. Barnes, submitted the following order :

That the President, at the suggestion of the Committee on "Revision and Compilation," shall have power to appoint a competent Clerk to assist said Committee in their labors ;

Which was rejected.

Sec. 4. Immediately after the Senate shall have convened after the first election under the Constitution, the Senators shall be divided by lot into two classes, as nearly equal in number as may be. Senators of the first class shall go out of office at the expiration of two years, and Senators shall be elected on the Tuesday next after the first Monday in the month of November, eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, for the term of four years, to supply their places ; so that after the first election one half of the Senators may be chosen every second year. In case the number of Senators be hereafter increased, such classification of the additional Senators shall be made as to preserve as nearly as may be, an equal number in each class.

Sec. 5. No person shall be eligible as a Senator or Delegate, who at the time of his election is not a citizen of the State of Maryland, and who has not resided therein for at least three years next preceding the day of his election, and the last year thereof in the county or in the Legislative District of Baltimore city, which he may be chosen to represent, if such county or legislative district of said city shall have been so long established, and if not, then in the county or city from which, in whole or in part, the same may have been formed ; nor shall any person be eligible as a Senator unless he shall have attained the age of twenty-five years, nor as a Delegate unless he shall have attained the age of twenty-one years at the time of his election.

Sec. 9. In case of death, disqualification, resignation, refusal to act, expulsion or removal from the county or city for which he shall have been elected, of any person who shall have been chosen as a Delegate or Senator, or in case of a tie between two or more such qualified persons, a warrant of election shall be issued by the Speaker of the House of Delegates or President of the Senate, as the case may be, for the election of another person in his place, of which election not less than ten day's notice shall be given exclusive of the day of the publication of the notice, and of the day of election; and in case of such resignation or refusal to act being communicated in writing to the Governor by the person so resigning or refusing to act, or if such death occur during the legislative recess, and more than ten days before its termination, it shall be the duty of the Governor to issue a warrant of election to supply the vacancy thus created in the same manner the said Speaker or President might have done during the session of the General Assembly; provided, however, that unless a meeting of the General Assembly may intervene, the election thus ordered to fill such vacancy shall be held on the day of the ensuing election for Delegates and Senators.

Sec. 10. The General Assembly shall meet on the first Wednesday of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-eight, and on the same day in every second year thereafter, and at no other time, unless convened by proclamation of the Governor.

Sec. 11. The General Assembly may continue its session so long as in its judgment the public interest may require for a period of not longer than ninety days; and each member thereof shall receive a compensation of five dollars per diem, for every day he shall attend the session, but not for such days as he may be absent, unless absent on account of sickness, or by leave of the House of which he is a member; and he shall also receive such mileage as may be allowed by law, not exceeding twenty cents per mile; and the presiding officer of each House shall receive an additional compensation of three dollars per day; when the General Assembly shall be convened by proclamation of the Governor, the session shall not continue longer than thirty days; and in such case, the compensation shall be the same as herein prescribed.

Sec. 12. No book, or other printed matter, not appertaining to the business of the session, shall be purchased or subscribed for the use of the members of the General Assembly, or be distributed among them at the public expense.

Sec. 13. No Senator or Delegate, after qualifying as such,

Sec. 16. A majority of the whole number of members elected to each House shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and compel the attendance of absent members in such manner and under such penalties as each House may prescribe.

Sec. 17. The doors of each House and of the Committee of the Whole shall be open, except when the business is such as ought to be kept secret.

Sec. 18. Each House shall keep a Journal of its proceedings, and cause the same to be published; the yeas and nays of members on any question shall, at the call of any five of them in the House of Delegates, or one in the Senate, be entered on the Journal.

Sec. 19. Each House may punish, by imprisonment, during the session of the General Assembly, any person not a member, for disrespectful or disorderly behavior in its presence, or for obstructing any of its proceedings or any of its officers in the execution of their duties; provided, such imprisonment shall not, at any one time, exceed ten days.

Sec. 20. The House of Delegates may inquire, on the oath of witnesses, into all complaints, grievances and offences, as the Grand Inquest of the State, and may commit any person for any crime to the public jail, there to remain until discharged by due course of law; they may examine and pass all accounts of the State, relating either to the collection or expenditure of the revenue, and appoint auditors to state and audit the same; they may call for all public or official papers.

Also the following memorial :

To the Honorable, the President and the members of the Maryland State Convention, in sovereign convention assembled :

The undersigned, fully satisfied, that he reflects the wishes of many citizens of our State, would respectfully submit to your Honorable Body the expediency of creating the office of a State Historiographer—an officer, who shall be selected, so far as possible, without reference to partizan considerations, and whose principal duty shall consist in the task of collecting and arranging the loose Colonial Papers, examining our early archives, obtaining extracts and transcripts from English State Papers and Records relating to the Province of Maryland, and superintending the publication, in successive quarto or folio volumes, and with a strict adherence to the original text in every particular, of such early documents as will aid the citizen in studying, and the historian in thoroughly illustrating the interesting History of our Colonization. To undertake, in the present inaccessible and chaotic state of our Papers and Records, to write a real History, would involve such sacrifices of time, labor and money, as no historian, however public-spirited or enthusiastic, could reasonably be expected to make. But, by arranging and classifying our documents, multiplying copies through the agency of the Press, and bringing them in contact with the active, living mind of the State, books of history would undoubtedly be produced, of which every son of Maryland could be justly proud. Nor are we without high precedents in favor of the proposed measure.

So early as the reign of William and Mary, England commenced the publication of her old State Papers, and has since gone back to the very days of the Conqueror, including her Dooms-Day-Book, and many other documents of the richest and rarest character. New York and other States of the American Union have followed the noble example of England ; and there is no reason why Maryland, which has so large a store-house of early documents, and such a rich mine of historical lore, should lag so far behind her own sister States.

But one of the strongest recommendations in support of the proposed measure, is derived from the present state of our historical literature, so far as it has already come within the agency of the press. The picture is indeed most melancholy. It may be said, without exaggeration, that, while we have several valuable fragments, with two or three good skeletons, there is nothing, which deserves the name, in the fullest, truest and most satisfactory sense, of a history of the Colonization of Maryland. The little, also, which has been done in the field of strictly original illustration, either by the State Government or by our Historical Society, is really so trifling as hardly to be worthy of a mention; many a son of the State is made to blush when he reflects upon so sad a decay of the historical instinct, in all classes of society; and so far has the taste for history declined, that the habit often prevails of regarding our early History in the light of a branch, merely, of Archæology. But our countryman, Geo. Peabody, whose large heart so warmly throbs in unison with the great popular movements and active enterprises of the present age, did, nevertheless, but the other day make the most liberal provision for illustrating the history even of extinct tribes and nations of North American Indians; and there remains, it is respectfully and earnestly submitted, a much higher obligation, on the part of Marylanders, to provide the means for a proper illustration of the history of their own ancestors. A State can never be really prosperous without a warm and loving sympathy for the Past. No State can be properly civilized, which has lost any of her noble traditions. No State, indeed, can be truly great which is not inspired with her proudest and best historic recollections—which has never yet been baptized in the living font of her own real History.

Respectfully submitted,

GEO. L. L. DAVIS.

Mr. Pleasants presented the following memorial of A. Schumacher, Esq., President of the Board of Trade, Baltimore city :

To the Honorable, The President and Members of the Constitutional Convention, assembled at Annapolis, to form a Constitution for the State of Maryland :

This memorial of the Board of Trade of the city of Baltimore, would most respectfully urge upon your Honorable Body the consideration of their view that, in the adoption of any provision in the proposed Constitution, relating to the rate of interest in this State, such rate, in cases of open accounts, or in the absence of special contract, should be fixed at seven (7) per cent.; that in all other cases the rate should be left to the adjustment of the contracting parties, and that any legislation in conflict with these principles be prohibited.

The reasons for these changes in the organic law are obvious to all business men and doubtless as well understood by your Honorable Body, as they are by your memorialists, they would crave permission, however, briefly to present some of them in this succinct form, as a justification for their appeal to you at this time.

As to the legal rate in open accounts, or in cases where there is no contract, it is respectfully submitted that the present rate of six (6) per cent. has the tendency not only to prevent foreign capital from coming to our State, but also drives a large amount of our own capital from this State, to seek investment in New York, where the legal rate is seven (7) per cent., and where lenders can thus generally obtain one per cent. more, in equal securities, than the legal rate in our State.

And as to the second proposition, they urge that it reflects the sentiment of our entire commercial community which is against such restrictions.

Usury and sumptuary laws, like bounty and colonial laws, have had their day and generation; experience has long since demonstrated their utter futility. Such laws, ostensibly intended to protect the industrial classes, only serve to oppress them, inasmuch as they are not the borrowers, but, in their savings banks, even to some extent, lenders.

The large borrowers are the railway companies, manufacturing and other corporations. The small borrower does not now get his money at six per cent., but often is obliged to buy it in his building associations (of which there are hundreds) at the highest rate which is bid for it at auction. The buyer of a promissory note can fix his own rate, while the lender of money is limited by law to six per cent.

The very law invites disobedience to itself; it encourages its own violation and causes exactions to pay for the dispute attached to its infraction; and it serves only to sharpen the arts of men to find shifts to evade a statute which is not sanctioned by the moral sense of the community.

It barely received the support of that body of eminent citizens who framed the Constitution of 1851, for the section in reference to the rate of interest was adopted only by a majority of ten votes. It was opposed then, as in all other instances, by the landed proprietors, under the mistaken idea that prohibitory clauses secured to them money at low rates, on mortgage.

In England, people have learned what doubtless is seen here now, that the law of supply and demand regulates money the same as all other commodities, and that the greater the attraction offered to capital, the more plentiful it becomes. In 1839, the first step taken in England towards the repeal of the usury laws was only partially successful; yet, under the powerful arguments of Jeremy Bentham, aided by the eloquence of John Stuart Mill, and others, these laws have since been entirely abolished.

In California and Rhode Island they have likewise been expunged from the statute book. Like imprisonment for debt, the usury laws belong to the past, and should be blotted from our Code.

With great respect, therefore, your memorialists urge upon your Honorable Body the adoption of the views which are herein only imperfectly expressed, and they will ever pray, &c., &c.

GEO. U. PORTER,
Secretary.

A. SCHUMACHER,
President Board of Trade.

Referred to the Committee to Consider and Report upon the Usury Laws, and the Rates of Interest.

Mr. Tarr, of Worcester, presented the petition of H. Humphreys, Wm. S. Parsons, William Birkhead and 281 others, in relation to the formation of a new county, to be composed of parts of Somerset and parts of Worcester county;

Which was read, and referred to the Committee upon a Proper Basis of Representation in the Two Houses of the General Assembly and a Proper Apportionment of Representatives in the Same.

Mr. Wilkinson submitted the following order :

Ordered, That the Committee on Public Works and Corporations be requested to inquire into the expediency of levying a tax upon the receipts of all corporations transacting business in this State which are incorporated in other States, the proceeds of such tax to be appropriated to the use of the public schools, or such other use as the Convention may decide ;

Which was adopted.

Mr. Wilkinson submitted the following order :

Ordered, That the Committee upon the Executive Department be requested to consider the propriety of incorporating a provision in the Constitution precluding all preachers of the Gospel and teachers of religious creeds or denominations from holding any office within the appointing power of the Executive ;

Which was adopted.

Mr. Stoddert, Chairman of the Committee upon the Executive Department, submitted the following

REPORT:

Section 1. The Executive power of the State shall be vested in a Governor whose term of office shall commence on the second Wednesday of January next ensuing his election, and continue for four years, and until his successor shall have qualified, but the Governor chosen at the first election under this Constitution shall not enter upon the discharge of the duties of the office until the expiration of the term for which the present incumbent was elected, unless the said office shall become vacant by death, resignation, removal from the State, or other disqualification of the said incumbent.

Sec. 2. An election for Governor under this Constitution shall be held on the Tuesday next after the first Monday of November, in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-eight, and on the same day and month in every fourth year thereafter, at the place of voting for Delegates to the General Assembly, and every person qualified to vote for Delegates shall be qualified and entitled to vote for Governor ; the election to be held in the same manner as the election of Delegates, and the returns thereof under seal, to be addressed to the Speaker of the House of Delegates, and enclosed and transmitted to the Secretary of State, and delivered to said Speaker at the commencement of the session of the General Assembly next ensuing said election.

Sec. 3. The Speaker of the House of Delegates shall then open the said returns in the presence of both houses, and the person having the highest number of votes, and being constitutionally eligible, shall be the Governor, and shall qualify in the manner herein prescribed on the second Wednesday of January next ensuing his election, or as soon thereafter as may be practicable.

Sec. 4. If two or more persons shall have the highest and an equal number of votes for Governor, one of them shall be chosen Governor by the Senate and House of Delegates, and all questions in relation to the eligibility of Governor, and to the returns of said election, and to the number and legality of votes therein given shall be determined by the House of Delegates, and if the person or persons having the highest number of votes be ineligible, the Governor shall be chosen by the Senate and House of Delegates; every election of Governor by the General Assembly shall be determined by a joint majority of the Senate and House of Delegates, and the vote shall be taken viva voce. But if two or more persons shall have the highest and an equal number of votes, then a second vote shall be taken which shall be confined to the persons having an equal number, and if the vote should again be equal, then the election for Governor shall be determined by lot between those who shall have the highest and an equal number on the first vote.

Sec. 5. A person to be eligible to the office of Governor must have attained the age of thirty years, and must have been for ten years a citizen of the United States, and for five years next preceding his election a resident of the State.

Sec. 6. In case of the death or resignation of the Governor, or of his removal from the State, the General Assembly, if in session, or if not, at their next session, shall elect some other qualified person to be Governor for the residue of the term for which the said Governor had been elected.

Sec. 7. In case of any vacancy in the office of Governor during the recess of the Legislature, the President of the Senate shall discharge the duties of said office until a Governor is elected, as herein provided for, and in case of the death or resignation of said President, or of his removal from the State, or of his refusal to serve, then the duties of said office shall in like manner, and for the same interval, devolve upon the Speaker of the House of Delegates, and the Legislature may provide by law for the impeachment of the Governor, and in case of his conviction or his inability, may declare what person shall perform the executive duties; and for any vacancy in said office not herein provided for provision may be made by law ; and if such vacancy should occur without such provision being made, the Legislature shall be convened by the Secretary of State for the purpose of filling said vacancy.

Sec. 8. The Governor shall be the commander-in-chief of the land and naval forces of the State, and may call out the militia to repel invasions, suppress insurrections, and enforce the execution of the laws, but shall not take the command in person without the consent of the Legislature.

Sec. 9. He shall take care that the laws are faithfully executed.

Sec. 10. He shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, appoint all civil and military officers of the State, whose appointment or election is not otherwise herein provided for, unless a different mode of appointment be prescribed by law creating the office.

Sec. 11. In case of any vacancy during the recess of the Senate, in any office which the Governor has power to fill, he shall appoint some suitable person to said office whose commission shall continue in force until the end of the next session of the Legislature, or until some other person is appointed to the same office, which ever shall first occur, and the nomination of the person thus appointed during the recess, or of some other person in his place, shall be made to the Senate within thirty days after the next meeting of the Legislature.

Sec. 12. No person after being rejected by the Senate shall be again nominated for the same office at the same session, unless at the request of the Senate, or be appointed to the same office during the recess of the Legislature.

Sec. 13. All civil officers appointed by the Governor and Senate shall be nominated to the Senate within fifty days from the commencement of each regular session of the Legislature, and their term of office shall commence on the first Monday of May next ensuing their appointment, except the Inspectors of Tobacco, which shall commence on the first Monday of March, and continue for two years, (unless removed from office,) and until their successors respectively qualify according to law.

Sec. 14. The Governor may suspend or arrest any military officer of the State for disobedience of orders, or other military offence, and may remove him in pursuance of the sentence of a court-martial ; and may remove for incompetency or misconduct, all civil officers who received appointment from the Executive for a term of years.

Sec. 15. The Governor shall convene the Legislature or the Senate alone, on extraordinary occasions; and whenever from the presence of an enemy or from any other cause, the seat of Government shall become an unsafe place for the meeting of the Legislature, he may direct their sessions to be held at some other convenient place.

Sec. 16. To guard against hasty or partial legislation and encroachments of the legislative department upon the co-ordinate Executive and Judicial Departments, every bill which shall have passed the House of Delegates and the Senate, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the Governor of the State; if he approve he shall sign it, but if not he shall return it with his objections to the House in which it originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to consider it; if after such reconsideration two-thirds of the House shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent to the other House by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by that House, it shall become a law; but in all such cases the votes of both Houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill, shall be entered on the journal of each House respectively; if any bill shall not be returned by the Governor within ten days (Sundays excepted) the same shall be a law in like manner as if he signed it, unless the General Assembly shall, by adjournment, prevent it.

Sec. 17. It shall be the duty of the Governor semi-annually, and oftener, to examine the bank books, account books and official proceedings of the Treasurer and Comptroller of the State on their oaths.

Sec. 18. He shall from time to time inform the Legislature of the condition of the State, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he may judge necessary and expedient.

Sec. 19. He shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons except in cases of impeachment, and in cases in which he is prohibited by other articles of this Constitution, and to remit fines and forfeitures for offences against the State; but shall not remit the principal or interest of any debt due the State except in cases of fines and forfeitures; and before granting a nolle prosequi or pardon, he shall give notice in one or more newspapers, of the application made for it, and the day on or after which his decision will be given; and in every case in which he exercises this power he shall report to either branch of the Legislature whenever required, the petitions, recommendations and reasons which influenced his decision.

Sec. 20. The Governor shall reside at the seat of Government and receive for his services an annual salary of four thousand five hundred dollars.

Sec. 21. When the public interest requires it he shall have power to employ counsel who shall be entitled to such compensation as the Legislature may allow in each case, after the services of such counsel shall have been performed.

Sec. 22. A Secretary of State shall be appointed by the Governor, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, who shall continue in office, unless sooner removed by the Governor, till the end of the official term of the Governor from whom he received his appointment, and receive an annual salary of one thousand five hundred dollars.

Sec. 23. He shall carefully keep and preserve a record of all official acts and proceedings, (which may at all times be inspected by a committee of either branch of the Legislature,) and shall perform such other duties as may be prescribed by law, or as may properly belong to his office.

Which was adopted.

Mr. Stoddert submitted the following order :

Ordered, That the Committee upon the Legislative Department be instructed to consider the propriety and necessity of inserting the following general principle, as a rule for, or as advisory to, the Legislature.

That the patronage and expenses of the Government have increased, are increasing, and ought to be diminished, and strict economy ought to be observed in all the departments of the government and in every branch of the public service ;

Which was adopted.

Mr. Howison, Chairman of the Committee upon Accounts, submitted the following report :

REPORT:

The Committee on Accounts, submit the following Report upon the matters embraced in the order of the Convention of the 4th instant :

The Committee Room referred to in the order, was appropriated by the President of the Convention, to the use of the Committee on Revision and Compilation, being the only unoccupied room in the building, and the only one that had not been prepared for the reception of the Convention. Under the authority contained in the joint resolution of the Legislature, the President directed it to be put in proper condition for the sessions of the Committee, and to enable the Clerk of Revision to perform properly the duties devolved upon him by order of the Convention.

It was accordingly cleansed, and a plain paper put on the walls, and plain straw matting on the floor, and the wood work received a slight coat of paint, all of which was essentially necessary for ordinary comfort. These repairs cost about two hundred and eighty dollars ; a few chairs were also provided, and are included in this sum, the other articles of furniture are the same that have always been in the room while occupied as a Senate Committee Room.

With reference to the compensation of the Revising Clerk, the Committee would remark, that the recommendation which they made in a former report, which was adopted by the Convention, was intended to apply to that officer as well as other officers of the Convention; that recommendation fixes the compensation and mileage at the same rates as are allowed to the members of the Convention.

The Committee take this occasion to say that in their former report, they inadvertently omitted to recommend the appointment of a suitable person to attend and keep in order the "Round Houses" attached to the State House; the services of this person are as necessary and important as the establishment over which he presides. Mr. Caleb Stewart has been performing these duties in a most acceptable manner since the meeting of the Convention, and qualified at the same time that the other officers did under the impression that he was appointed by competent authority. He has received no compensation, and the Committee recommend that the President have power to appoint him.

Respectfully submitted,

JAS. R. HOWISON, Chairman.

ALFRED SPATES,

HARRY W. DORSEY,

SAMUEL RIGGS, of R.

WILLIAM JANVIER,

HENRY A. SILVER,

B. B. CHAMBERS.

Mr. Dobbin submitted the following order :

Ordered, As the sense of this Convention that the whole subject of the individual relations of the States of this Union to foreign nations having been committed by the Constitution of the United States, to the general Government, this Convention, representing the Government and people of an individual State, can take no action upon the petition of James T. Dwyer, except to declare that the citizens of Maryland, composed in large part of Irishmen and their descendants, will ever witness with deep solicitude any measures promotive of the welfare and happiness of the people of Ireland.

And it is further ordered, That the said petition be printed for general information, upon the Journal of the Convention.

Which was unanimously adopted.

The petition of James T. Dwyer, Springfield, Illinois, United States, North America, asking, on behalf of the Irish people, that the Constitutional Convention now convened at Annapolis, for the amendment of the present Constitution of the State of Maryland, make the official recognition of "The National Flag and the National Seal" of the kingdom of Ireland, as known and acknowledged by contemporary nations previous to the year 1800, part of the proceedings of its body, by inserting in the amended Constitution, general or special provisions causing such recognition, and also declaring belligerent rights to the Irish people and for other purposes :

SPRINGFIELD, ILLINOIS,

May 25, 1867.

To the President and members of the Constitutional Convention convened at Annapolis for the amendment of the present Constitution of the State of Maryland :

Your petitioner would respectfully represent to your Honorable Body that he is a native of Ireland and a citizen of the United States and of the State of Illinois, that he owes no allegiance and never did owe any but compulsory allegiance, to the Crown of Great Britain, acting through the unlawful dictation of the Imperial Parliament. On the contrary he claims that the so-called Union between England and Scotland, and Ireland, dating from the year 1800, having transferred by violence, fraud and corruption to English soil, without any sanction or authority from the Irish people, the whole of their legislative rights, as existing up to that period, and that in defiance not only of the local laws and Constitution of Ireland, but also in direct violation of the well settled "law of nations," which substantially declares :

"That no voluntary transfer from one nation to another of National or Legislative rights or powers can be accomplished so as to make it binding on the transferred Nation unless it can be shown to the satisfaction of the acknowledged government and for their future peace and security, that the people of the transferred nationality have been called on to vote for or against the transfer, and that the question of transfer has gone through the form of casting the popular vote for and against the measure, and that in case of refusal or omission to attach this imperative qualification to the change, the transfer is null and void, and the transferred parties are fully clothed with belligerent rights for the arrest of the transfer, or the restoration of their original condition, regardless of the time which may have elapsed, before they have the military ability to place themselves in a belligerent position."

And by which it will be seen that this law of nations compels civilized governments to act under its imperative dictates as exhibited in the popular vote taken in the case of Savoy before its annexation to France, and which vote was clamorously demanded of Louis Napoleon as an international obligation by the press, Parliament, oligarchy, churchmen, politicians and people of England, in the jealous hope that the people of Savoy would cast a negative vote to the mortification of the French.

More recently, and to carry out the spirit of this popular and international principle, Venetia after being conquered from Austria, was called on to take a formal popular vote before her annexation to the Kingdom of Italy; so that no pretence should be left for opening up future discussions as to the willingness of the people to the annexation and removing effectually any excuse on this question for disturbing the peace of Europe hereafter.

While writing, the telegraph announces the Government of Canada "the people of the separate provinces having been called on to vote for or against the confederation." British injustice by this substantial act, voluntarily admitting the correctness of the principle as regards the Canadas, and at the same time denying it as to Ireland.

The commanding necessity of compelling nations to adhere strictly to this international principle, is fully illustrated by the position which the omission to take a formal vote of the Irish people at the time of the fictitious union between England and Ireland, has placed both countries in, as regards their relations to the sister nations. Governments civilized and uncivilized, whose interests are for the maintenance of peace, without being in any manner parties to this omission, but which, owing to those many besetting complications surrounding national interests, know not at what moment that the Irish people, scattered abroad by the million and fully alive to the international defect of the Union, and exasperated by the last sixty-seven years of brutal legislation and misgovernment of Ireland, by the Imperial Parliament of Great Britain, may burst into a conflagration, involving not only British interests, but also those of innocent and unoffending nations, in a desolating and universal war with every indication of its being a war of retaliation and extermination between the original parties. Because there is no disguising the conclusion that this question "of not having taken the popular vote" of the Irish people in the year 1800, or a refusal on the part of the Crown of Ireland to restore the Irish Parliament which it has the exclusive right of doing, by the easy process of taking at some future, but not far distant day, the vote of the people of Ireland for or against her domestic Parliament, must and will result in a determined effort to drive from the soil of Ireland the present reigning family and its parasites.

Your petitioner would further represent that previous to the illegal absorption of the Irish domestic Parliament by the Imperial Parliament of Great Britain, Ireland was governed by her own Parliament, exercising supreme legislative functions. The Crown of Ireland, through its vice-roy or Lord Lieutenant possessing a simple veto power over the acts of the Irish Parliament similar to that now exercised over the Imperial Parliament of Great Britain, and having no more constitutional authority from any source, real or pretended, to transfer the Irish Parliament to the soil of England without the consent of the people of Ireland, than it would to transfer the present Imperial Parliament of Great Britain to the soil of France or the shores of Maryland, without the consent of the people of Great Britain.

So forcible is this position of the want of authority in the Crown of Ireland, to sanction the annihilation of the Irish Parliament, that had this Union resulted in the same disaster to England as it has been disastrous to Ireland, the unconstitutional action of George the III, in giving his willing sanction to it, would have been made a basis of impeachment against him and his advising ministers, and England would have many years since changed the executive head of her Government, and probably purged herself of the whole Guelph family and of Royalty.

This national independence which was annihilated by the Union of 1800, carried with it the right to maintain an army and navy—to coin money—punish crime, and contract loans on the credit of the Irish Nation. It also conferred the right to carry on the high sea, and at the head of her armies a distinct national emblem, this national emblem being well known and acknowledged as "the national flag of the Kingdom of Ireland." The right to use a separate and distinct "seal" was also possessed and acted on by Her National Executive and public functionaries.

And your petitioner would further state, that it will be found on examination of "the Journals of the Irish Parliament of the date of the so called Union of 1800," that the essential vote of the people of Ireland never was taken, nor ordered to be taken by said Parliament; and your petitioner claims in common with hosts of more able authorities, speaking and writing in denunciation of this Union from the year 1800 to the present day, that by reason of this and other defects in the proceedings, the Union of Great Britain and Ireland never has been accomplished as a legal fact; and that consequently the official National Flag, as carried by the Irish army and navy previous to the year 1800, and the official seal used by her public functionaries, still exist and have been from the year 1800 to the present time, in a condition of illegal suppression by force of English arms, and that they are now only waiting the legal action of foreign independent governments and foreign tribunals of international law, to restore them to their original condition of acknowledged nationality.

Your petitioner would therefore respectfully ask that your Honorable Body would pass a resolution declaring substantially, "That the official vote of the people of Ireland sanctioning the removal of the Irish Parliament and Irish Government from Ireland to England in the year 1800, required by the law of nations, not having been demanded or given at that time or since the flag, as acknowledged, and the seal, as used by the Irish Government, up to the year 1800, have, not by the operation of the so-called Act of the Union of Ireland with England in any manner, lost their legal international standing in the State of Maryland, and that they still represent the independent government of Ireland, and will be recognized by us when called on to do so by any provisional government, exhibiting rational evidence of stability and existence which may hereafter be organized for their national restoration, and that we hereby acknowledge the right of such provisional government to organize and arm, and that such provisional government, its allies, adherents and supporters, are, and shall for ever remain belligerents in any war carried on for such national restoration of said Flag and Seal of the Kingdom of Ireland."

And your petitioner would further ask, "that the Legislature and Executive of the State of Maryland, be fully empowered in the amended Constitution to carry out the provisions of the foregoing resolutions, by inserting a special article authorizing them to issue the credit of the State of Maryland to said provisional Irish Government, and to enter into any contract with said government not conflicting with the Constitution of the United States and the State of Maryland, provided, the products, navigation, copy patent, civil, legal and religious rights of Maryland and Ireland are placed on an entire equality of full and unrestricted freedom as regards each other."

Your petitioner would most respectfully submit, that he does not wish to be understood as claiming, that the State of Maryland has any sovereign right to attach any official value to any flag or seal outside of the powers vested by the Constitution in the Federal Government, but he does claim that the State of Maryland, or any and all of the States can express their individual opinions when an international law is violated—as to the value of the political obligations of the suffering or delinquent nationalities, and in this particular case. Great Britain denying the political or national existence of said flag and seal of Ireland, and insisting from the year 1800, that they had no existence—being brought before you, as part of one of the great nations of the earth, to be tried at the bar of public opinion, and failing in presenting you with an unbroken chain of Constitution, Parliamentary and international facts and law, in support of her pretensions, and relying solely on her ability to exercise jurisdiction by "brute force;" you certainly have the natural right to give expression to your opinions, as citizens, individually or collectively in Convention, and to take any reasonable steps in spreading your conclusions and desires before the world, not conflicting with the international laws as received or with the Constitution and laws of the United States.

But the semi-official or official admission by the State of Maryland, and all the other States of the Union as individual States of the legal status of "the Irish flag" and "seal" within each State, would certainly be followed by a similar admission on the part of Congress, which admission would be tantamount to an international legal decision. That the Act of Union between England and Ireland, dating from the year 1800; has never been legally accomplished, the international obligation of the national vote of the people of Ireland being wanting to complete the connection.

Should the State individually, and Congress afterwards declare that the flag and seal of Ireland previous to the year 1800, represents the Irish Government, their declarations would be followed by other independent governments, and the belligerent rights of the Irish people claiming under this strong title universally admitted.

Your petitioner would respectfully suggest that the prompt action of the State of Maryland in acknowledging "the Flag" and "Seal" of Ireland, is at the present time of immense moment to Ireland. Many of our sister States are holding their Constitutional Conventions, others are holding their Legislative sessions, and each of them will be asked for the recognition of "the Flag" and "Seal." The Constitutional Convention of the State of Michigan, has a copy of this document before it for disposition, and it is desirable that each and all should express themselves promptly, and in terms of affirmation on a question of such vital importance.

In conclusion, your petitioner regards "this Flag" and "Seal" question as the turning point of Irish Independent Legislation, and asks the State of Maryland and the other States of the Union, for the practical sympathy and assistance which the free and prosperous should be always willing to extend to the public and down-trodden, and asks you again to admit the present legal existence—within the State of Maryland—of “the Flag” and “Seal” of the Irish Nation, as recognized before the year 1800, and the belligerent rights of the Irish people until a vote of the Irish people is taken “for” or “against” a Union with England.

The President laid before the Convention, the following communication from the Attorney General :

ANNAPOLIS, 13th June, 1867.

To Hon. R. B. CARMICHAEL,

President, &c.

Sir :—I have read in the papers of to-day, among the proceedings of the Convention, some allegations of neglect of my official duty as Attorney General of the State which, in justice to myself, I beg leave respectfully to correct.

I never have to the extent of my ability neglected any official duty required of me, and I am willing to meet any investigation of this matter that may be instituted.

In addition to my official duties performed in my office, which, in consumption of time, exceeded all the others, I have attended to State cases in the Circuit Courts of Anne Arundel, Howard and Montgomery counties, in the Court of Appeals and in the Supreme Court of the United States, and these are the only cases wherein I have been required, according to the Constitution, by the Governor or General Assembly, to represent the State. It is true that suits in which the State was a party have been instituted, prosecuted or defended by other counsel in behalf of the State, wherein, under other circumstances it would have been my duty to represent the State, but they all will be found to be cases in which either I had been retained as counsel before my election to this office, and could not, therefore, with propriety act for the State, or wherein the Governor or other officers of the State employed other counsel to represent the State.

With great respect, I am

Your obedient servant,

A. RANDALL,

Attorney General, of Md.

Which was read, and,

On motion of Mr. Brown ;

Was ordered to be entered on the Journal.

Mr. Syester (by unanimous consent,) asked, and was granted leave of absence from the sessions of the Convention until Thursday next, 20th inst.

Mr. McCormick submitted the following order :

Ordered, That the Committee respecting the appointment, tenure of office, duties and compensation of all civil officers.

not embraced in the duties of other standing Committees, be directed to inquire into the expediency of abolishing the office of Commissioner of the Land Office, and of designating some other officer to perform the duties required of that officer ;

Which was adopted.

Mr. Howison, Chairman of Committee upon Accounts submitted the following report :

The Committee on Accounts respectfully submit the following

REPORT:

Under the Joint Resolution of the last Legislature requiring the Secretary of the Senate to have the Hall of the House of Delegates, &c., prepared in a proper manner for the use of the Convention, a number of accounts have been presented to the Committee for the necessary repairs and alterations, and for some articles of furniture for the Hall and Committee Rooms.

The Committee have required the Secretary of the Senate to certify that all the items and articles charged in these accounts were necessary for the purpose indicated in the Joint Resolution, and that the prices charged are just and reasonable, and they have also examined the several claimants and taken other proof on the same points, and recommend that the following accounts be allowed and paid :

Green & Claude, for furniture and many other articles for the repairs and alterations,.....	$2,023 74
J. Hopkins & Son, for painting the Hall, passages, Committee Rooms, &c.,.....	323 00
Thomas A. Makibbin, for sundry repairs,.....	3 50
George Murdock, for cleaning and scouring the Hall and Committee Rooms, and for assisting in making the necessary alterations,.....	100 00
Augustus Gassaway, for his services in superintending and fitting up the Hall and Committee Rooms under the Joint Resolution of the Legislature,.....	200 00

The same allowances have been made on former occasions, and are justly due for the services rendered.

The accounts of Messrs. Cushing & Medary, and of J. W. Bond & Co., for stationery for the use of the Convention, have also been presented to the Committee, and have been examined and passed by them.

The stationery was purchased by the Librarian under an order of the Legislature, and that officer was before the Committee, proved the accounts, and certified to the reasonableness of the charges.

It has been usual to allow the Librarian some compensation for purchasing and distributing the stationery, and the Committee recommend that they be authorized to do so in this case.

The expense incurred for this object is about one-half the amount usually expended by the Legislature. The Committee, therefore, recommend the payment of Messrs. Cushing & Medary's account for $2,103 50, and of the account of Messrs. J. W. Bond & Co., for $2,319 00.

The carpenter's account for the repairs and alterations of the Hall and Committee Rooms, will be reported when satisfactorily adjusted by the Committee.

The Committee also recommend the payment of James Legg's account for furnishing ice for the use of the Convention, $43 65.

Under an order of the Convention passed on the 31st of May, the Committee was required to take into consideration the propriety of paying a sum of money to S. T. Herbert for services rendered this Convention before the due installation into office of the officers of the Convention, and report the same to this House for its adoption.

The Committee have required into the merits of this case, and respectfully report that Mr. S. T. Herbert appears to have rendered voluntary services in the folding-room before the appointment of the additional folders, and the Committee are of opinion that he is entitled to compensation for eight days service. They recommend that he be paid accordingly.

Sec. 4. The School fund of the State shall be kept inviolate and appropriated only to the purpose of education.

SECTION 1. And the votes in the several Election Districts of each county, shall at the first general election, after the ratification of this Constitution, and at each succeeding general election for members of the House of Delegates thereafter, elect one School Commissioner for each Election District in each county, the returns thereof to be made in the same manner now required by law for other county officers, and the persons elected as Commissioners, shall constitute a Board of Public Education for the respective counties where they are chosen, and the Board so constituted shall have power to provide such system of Public Education for their respective counties as they may deem best, and they shall have full power to put the same into effective operation in their respective counties, and the County Commissioners of each county shall from time to time levy upon the assessable property of

Mr. Kilbourn moved that the further consideration of the Report and pending amendments, be postponed until Tuesday next, 25th inst., and be printed.

Decided in the negative.

The question then recurring upon the amendment submitted by Mr. Barnes as a substitute for the whole Report ;

Mr. Horsey, of Frederick, demanded the previous question ;

The question then being "shall the previous question be now put ;"

It was decided in the affirmative.

largely exceeding four hundred thousand dollars, and she has since become the holder and owner of these preferred bonds which with interest due thereon, amount to over three hundred and twenty thousand dollars. And the State of Virginia, upon the memorial of the Canal Company and upon the opinion and advice of the Attorney General of Maryland, as far back as 1849, endorsed and guaranteed the bonds of the Company to the amount of two hundred thousand dollars for repairs, upon which she has already paid interest to the amount of one hundred and sixty thousand dollars. Virginia therefore is interested in the preferred debt secured by this mortgage as creditor and guarantor to the extent of over one million two hundred and twenty thousand dollars, and the whole debt due by the Company on account of these preferred bonds and interest unpaid thereon, now exceed four millions of dollars.

The General Assembly of Maryland, having become satisfied that the interest of the State, as well as of the bondholders could only be secured by giving the bondholders an influential share in the management of a work whose whole revenue must for many years belong to them exclusively, passed at the January session, 1867, "An Act entitled, an Act to authorize the Board of Public Works to vote the stock of the State in the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company for a President and four Directors upon the nomination of the holders of the preferred bonds of said Company; the object of which, is explicitly set forth in its title and preamble."

This Act requires the Board of Public Works at the first general meeting of Stockholders, to cast the Stockholder vote of the State: first for its acceptance, and then for a President and four Directors as nominees of the Trustees of the preferred Bondholders.

Under this law, the General Assembly intended that the preferred Bondholders should exercise that influence in the management of the Canal Company and its works which was due to their paramount interest therein, until their debt was paid off or secured to be paid off, by a sinking fund, the creation and management of which was particularly provided for in said Act of Assembly, and the Stockholders and preferred Bondholders hoped at last to be repaid their great sacrifices, the latter by the payment of their debt, the former by relieving their property of a destructive incumbrance consisting of these bonds, and ultimately, from the burden of the many millions of dollars due the State of Maryland.

And your memorialists respectfully represent that by the charter of the said Canal Company the annual meetings of the Stockholders thereof are required to be held on the first Monday of June, and that at said meetings a President and six Directors of the Company are required to be chosen, to represent the whole body, of the Stockholders, but that neither the State of Maryland nor any other Stockholder is by the charter or by any law, authorized to appoint any Director or Directors as special representatives of the stock or interest of said Stockholder in said Company, but that the President and the said six Directors have always been chosen by the votes of the Stockholders present, by virtue of the said charter and not by virtue of any other law or any provision of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, nor under the said charter which is a contract not subject to be altered or modified without the consent of the Stockholders. Could there be any valid law or constitutional provision authorizing the appointment of the President or Directors by the said Board of Public Works.

In pursuance of the charter the Stockholders of the said Company met in the City of Annapolis, on the first Monday of June, 1867, when a lawful meeting was organized by the presence and co-operation therein of a majority in value of all the stock, and, at that meeting the State of Maryland claimed to be present and represented by a majority of the Board of Public Works of said State, and the United States, the State of Virginia, and the cities of Washington, Georgetown and Alexandria, attended by their duly appointed proxies, and the Trustees of the Bondholders, in pursuance of the said Act of the General Assembly nominated in writing a President and four Directors of said Company.

And your memorialists further state that the said meeting of Stockholders took into consideration the said law, as they were bound to do, and a resolution was offered providing for the acceptance of the same. The object and effect of said law was now for the first time, discussed by the said Stockholders and the Stockholders present, including the State of Maryland, represented by the Governor and Comptroller, were unanimously of opinion that it was a wise and expedient act of legislation, founded upon sound principles of public policy. But, whilst there was no difference of opinion as to the justice and wisdom of the law, the Board of Public Works had conceived doubts of its constitutionality, and against the wishes and judgment of the minority of said Stockholders, refused to vote for the acceptance of the law, and without coming to any definite vote thereupon, proposed and carried an adjournment of the meeting to the 10th day of July, proximo.

It is not pretended that the Act of 1867, violates any essential principle of the fundamental law, or contravenes in the least, any public interest; but the Board of Public Works insist, that as they are clothed by the Constitution, with authority to appoint the Directors in all Canal and Railroad Companies in which the State has the "legal powers to appoint Directors," it is beyond the power of the Legislature to direct how the vote of the State as a Stockholder in the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company shall be cast, and that this provision extends not merely to the case when the power of appointment is exercised by the Board independently of all other Stockholders, but also to the case where the State only votes for Directors in common with her co-Stockholders.

Your memorialists find themselves unable to concur in this view. They are advised that the Directors of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company are not among the class of Directors for whose appointment the Constitution provides, and that neither in fact nor in law, has the State any legal power to appoint them. There are, and have been, many corporations in which the State, at the time of subscribing for stock, reserved to itself the right to appoint Directors.

Such is the case of the Baltimore and Ohio, and Philadelphia and Wilmington Railroads, and formerly of the Susquehanna Railroad Companies, and it is to direct one of this class alone that the Constitutional provision was intended to apply. But in the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, the State has no Directors to appoint, nor has she ever pretended to any other power than that of meeting with her co-Stockholders in general meeting, and casting the number of votes belonging to her shares as other Stockholders cast theirs. Her relation to the company is simply that of any other Stockholder, and the Directors, when elected by a majority of the Stockholders, represent not the State but the Corporation. Neither in the original charter, nor in any supplement thereto, has any power at all been conferred on the State to appoint Directors in this Company, and the words "legal power" in the Constitution, meaning power by law, cannot by any latitude of construction be interpreted to confer a power to appoint resulting from the State's being the owner of a majority of stock in the company. A power to appoint is in its very nature altogether inconsistent with the idea of an election shared in by others. The correctness of this view becomes the more apparent when it is borne in mind that should two of the Board of Public Works be present at the general meeting of the Stockholders and fail to concur, so that the vote of the State would not be cast, the minority, according to the provisions of the charter, could elect the Directors. Indeed the provision in the same section which declares that the Directors appointed by the Board of Public Works, shall represent the State in all meetings of the Stockholders, itself demonstrates that the position taken by the Board is untenable, for, if the Directors in this Company, now acting as such, became such by appointment from the Board under the constitutional provision relied on, then there is no way by which, without their own consent, they can be ousted from their offices, for the plain reason, that when once appointed, they, and not the Board of Public Works represent the State in all meetings of the Stockholders, and thus representing her, can cast her vote to the perpetuation of their power. The claim to this power of appointment by the Board, conducts them to a necessary logical result which divests them of all power over the subject, and actually disables them from ever appearing on behalf of the State, at any meeting of the Stockholders of the Company.

The only possible escape from this dilemma, is by the concession that the Directors in this Company are not of the class of Directors referred to in the constitutional provision relied on.

Whilst your memorialists have considered it due to themselves to state, thus briefly their own convictions of the entire compatibility of the Act of 1867, with the Constitution of the State, their object in addressing this memorial to your Honorable Body, is not to obtain the judgment of the Convention upon the points of difference which have arisen between the Stockholders of the Canal Company as to the validity of the law, but to ask that the Board may be relieved of all scruples and enabled to execute without a surrender of any constitutional power, a law which they concede to be liable to no objection on the score of its merits.

In presenting this prayer to Your Honorable Body, these memorialists are of course, chiefly moved by a regard to their own especial interest, but, at the same time, it is impossible that their interests can be separated from those of the State. They do not anticipate any difference of opinion in your Honorable Body, as to the inherent evils of the past and present mode of administering the affairs of the Canal Company, nor as to the absolute necessity of an abandonment of that system, unless it shall be determined by common consent, that neither the public nor private interests involved in the work are worthy the attention of the public authorities. That a canal of 185 miles in length, uniting the most extensive and valuable coal fields in the world, with a seaport accessible to vessels of the largest tonnage, and costing now, without any calculation of interest, more than fifteen millions of dollars, should be unable to keep itself in repair and realize an annual gross revenue of two per cent. upon its cost, cannot but be imputed either to some unaccountable want of foresight in its projection or to a system of management radically defective. It is the settled opinion of the undersigned, whose deep interest in the subject has caused them to give it close attention, that there is no cure for these evils which can be relied on short of such change as will place the work, for a time, substantially under the management of those to whom, by law and by solemn pledges, all its nett revenues must, for many years belong. If, under their administration the trade and revenues of the canal can be so increased, and its expenses so diminished, as to pay off the incumbrances represented by your memorialists, it is obvious that the State of Maryland will become the owner of a work yielding revenue sufficient to relieve her people from a large portion of the present burden of direct taxation. The State was, on the first day of January, 1866, a creditor, (without including its subscription of five millions dollars) of the Canal Company, to an amount exceeding twelve millions of dollars. Until the debt due to the creditors represented by your memorialists shall be paid, no part of the principal or interest of this vast sum can be paid, and your memorialists submit with profound confidence that ample experience has shown that a radical change in the administration of the affairs of the Canal Company must take place before any such auspicious results can be expected.

Impressed with the force of these views, your memorialists respectfully present their grievances to the Sovereign Convention of the people of Maryland, and pray that they will give effect to the just and equitable intentions of the last General Assembly by incorporating in the proposed Constitution a provision whereby the administration of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company will, for a limited period, and with such guards and precautions as the wisdom of the Convention may suggest, be confided to the holders of the preferred bonds or their representatives.

It will of course be the province and duty of the Convention to take care that the influence to which the people of Maryland as the chief patron of this work are justly entitled shall be fully maintained and secured by the proposed measure, under the influence of which, it will be equally the interest and duty of your memorialists to use every possible exertion to return the Canal to the State freed of its heaviest burden and in a condition to continue what its projectors designed it to be, a perpetual source of wealth, prosperity and revenue to the State.

Sec. —. There shall be a Register of Wills in each county of the State to be elected by the legal and qualified voters of said counties respectively, who shall hold his office for six years from the time of his election, and until his successor is elected and qualified; he shall be re-eligible, and subject at all times to removal for wilful neglect of duty or misdemeanor in office, in the same manner that clerks of the courts are removable. In the event of any vacancy in the office of Register of Wills, said vacancy shall be filled by the Judge of the Orphan's Court in which such vacancy occurs until the next general election of Delegates to the General Assembly, when a Register of Wills shall be elected to serve for six years.

Sec. —. The Register of Wills shall perform all the duties pertaining to his office which are now or may be hereafter prescribed by law, and in the absence of the Judge shall have and exercise all the powers vested in the Orphan's Court, subject to such rules and regulations as the Judge of such Court may prescribe; provided, however, that it shall be the duty of the said Register in any suit, cause, acified; and he shall be ineligible for the term next succeeding that for which he was elected.

Sec. 2. The City Council of Baltimore shall consist of Two Branches, one of which shall be called the First Branch, and the other, the Second Branch; and each shall consist of such number of members, possessing such qualifications, performing such duties, possessing such powers, holding such terms of office, and elected in such manner, as are now, or may hereafter be prescribed by Law.

Sec. 4. The Regular Session of the City Council of Baltimore, (which shall be annual) shall commence on the third Monday of January in each year, and shall not continue more than ninety days, exclusive of Sundays, but the Mayor may convene the City Council in extra session whenever and as often as it may appear to him that the public good may require, but no called or extra session shall last longer than twenty days exclusive of Sundays.

Sec. 5. No person elected and qualified as Mayor, or as a member of the City Council, shall during the term for which he was elected hold any other office of profit or trust created, by the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore, or by any law relating to the Corporation of Baltimore, or hold any employments or position, the compensation of which shall be paid directly or indirectly out of the City Treasury, nor shall any such person be interested directly or indirectly, in any contract to which the City is a party, nor shall it be lawful for any person holding any office under the City to be interested while holding such office in any contract to which the City is a party.

Sec. 9. Nothing in this article shall prevent the General Assembly of this State from making such changes in this article except in section seventh thereof, as it may deem best, nor shall this article be so construed or taken, as to make the political corporation of Baltimore independent or free from the control which the General Assembly of Maryland has over all such corporations in this State.

Which was read the first time.

At the hour of eleven o'clock A. M., His Excellency, Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, Hon. Wm. H. Seward, Secretary of State, and suite, entered the Hall, escorted by the Committee on Reception appointed on the part of the Convention,—and by His Excellency Governor Swann and Staff.

Mr. Jones, Chairman of the Committee on Reception, then reported as follows :

Mr. President: I have the honor to report, on behalf of the Committee who were charged with the very agreeable duty of meeting the President of the United States and his suite, in the city of Baltimore, that the Committee have performed their duty. Having received the President, the Secretary of State, and his suite, I have now the honor to present them to this Convention. Governor Swann will now formally introduce to the Body your distinguished guests.

Whereupon, the Governor proceeded to the introduction in the following words:

GOVERNOR SWANN'S REMARKS.

MR. PRESIDENT :

In accordance with the unanimous wish of this Convention, as expressed in your resolutions of the 20th instant, I have the honor to present to you his Excellency, Andrew Johnson, President of the United States. I have also the pleasure to present to you on this occasion the Hon. Wm. H. Seward, who accompanied him on his recent agreeable tour to the North. He has come, Mr. President, to accept the hospitality which has been so cordially extended to him by the State of Maryland.

Standing by the side of this great advocate of the people's rights, I am sure I will not be accused of falsehood when I claim for him the homage of a people whose ancestral relations comprise so large a portion of the history of this Government. Unawed by persecution, stripped of the powers, the essential powers conferred by the Constitution upon his high office, powers which he has conscientiously and honestly exercised for the benefit of the whole people, in the interest of patriotism, and not of party, almost within reach of accomplishing the great object of reconstruction, to which his efforts have been directed, he stands here to-day not the less honored because he has failed, from untoward interferences, to accomplish the great object of his mission and duty. The effort, (and I regret to say it in the face of this Convention and the face of the country,) the effort to transfer a whole section of our blessed country from the Anglo Saxon to the African race, to establish the negro in the Governmental control of a large section of our country, cannot be viewed without regret and alarm by the American people. The subordination of the civil to the military power has marked the progress to tyranny and despotism in all ages of the world. Republics, quite as powerful as our own, have fallen beneath the heavy weight of irresponsible military power. Is this to be the fate of this great Republic? I can only say, Mr. President, if such is to be the result, the responsibility is not with Andrew Johnson. The present condition of your country, your prostrate commerce, the foreshadowing of threats which have gone forth of red-handed agrarianism, has not resulted from any power conferred upon the President of the United States. Standing within these ancient walls, consecrated by so many of the proudest recollections of the past, we may enjoy the privilege here, in the State of Maryland, at least, while not forgetting our duties as Statesmen and Christian men, of doing honor to Andrew Johnson, for in this we renew our pledges to the Constitution which comes down to us from our fathers of the Revolution to which this distinguished man, this uncompromising advocate, and I may say, the friend of popular government throughout the world, has devoted his life.

Then allow me to present these distinguished men to the Convention.

REMARKS OF HON. R. B. CARMICHAEL.

Mr. Carmichael said: Welcome, Mr. President! Thrice welcome to the Capital of the State of Maryland! This greeting throbs in every heart of this Convention, and would have utterance from every lip if it were in the order of procedure. The resolutions which were communicated to you by the Governor received the unanimous vote of this Convention. You are thus assured that, in coming here, you are in the midst of your friends—friends of your policy and your person. In a well regulated Government a respect is paid to those who have the administration of the law that does not attach to their private persons. It is a homage which is paid to the majesty of the law, and the people of Maryland will not be wanting in any proper demonstration to the President of the United States. But, sir, this is not exactly the meaning of this occasion. It was intended to mean that and more than that. It was intended to convey to you and to the country the approbation of this Convention and of this State, for the measures adopted by your administration for the restoration of the Union.

These measures, inaugurated for that purpose, and to bind up the wounds of a bleeding country, were received throughout the State of Maryland with universal acceptance. It was the policy of a wise statesmanship. It was the promptings alike of patriotism and philanthropy. It is not pertinent to this occasion, nor does time serve to enter into any discussion of the merits of that question. History will record its facts—posterity will judge. But it is proper to say that it was welcome here. It poured oil on the troubled waters of this State. It brought men together who had held life-long differences in political opinions. It bound up broken ties of former friendships, and made them firmer and faster. It made us one people, as you here find us of one mind and one heart. Mr. President, I will not detain you, after the exhausting tour you have gone through, with more remarks. It is sufficient that I should repeat to you the cordial welcome which you have here received.

President Johnson then replied as follows :

PRESIDENT JOHNSON'S SPEECH.

SIR :—In being presented here to-day under these peculiar circumstances, and on a spot which, at an early period of our history, was consecrated to freedom, I confess to you that a reception so kind, and so cordial, and so gratifying, incapacitates me from making suitable acknowledgment ; but I cannot refrain from saying that my visit to this Capital affords me much pleasure—among other reasons, because events have recently transpired which were not the result of any preconceived arrangement or design, but which, it seems to me, were brought about by Providence itself. But a few days since, without any agency on my part, I was called to my native State to participate in a ceremony of great interest to me personally. After my return to Washington I was invited to visit the opposite extreme of the country. When I consider these two events connected with my visit here to-day, it looks to me as the result of a kind and overruling Providence. But the other day it would have been impossible for the Chief Magistrate to travel as far South as I did, and we know from the prejudice existing it would have been unpleasant for my honored friend (Mr. Seward,) to have gone so far in that direction. But when I look at the pleasant incidents connected with our visit to North Carolina, it seems to me, and I trust I am not mistaken in saying, that an era of good will is about to be inaugurated. If I know myself, from the beginning of the late unhappy civil strife, I had but a single object in view, and that was to preserve the harmony, peace and union of these States. It would have been at any time the highest object of my ambition to tie up the bleeding arteries which caused so much blood, and the expenditure of so much money. Now, however, there is a new era, and I trust we shall have peace on earth and good will toward men. I trust the time has come when man is no longer to be set on man, and in the name of God to lift his hand against the throat of his fellow, and that the land that gave a brother birth will be spared from being again drenched with a brother's blood.

To be invited to visit the State of Maryland by a Convention which has a reputation for talent, to be welcomed by the Chairman of your Committee, by the Governor of your State, and by your President, irrespective of party, is peculiarly gratifying to me. The history of Maryland, and especially of Annapolis, is more familiar to you than to me, and therefore it is not necessary for me to indulge in a narration of facts which will last as long as history itself.

If my memory serves me, after we had passed through the Revolutionary struggle for independence, and it was found that the articles of Confederation were not of sufficient strength to secure the Government, the first proposal to remodel the Government under which we now live emanated from this place, and this is the Constitution I have been taught to believe sacred in principle, and for the preservation of which I have periled my all. I now rely on the principle upon which I have always relied, namely: first be convinced that you are right, and thoroughly understand the principle, and then you can rely on it that in pursuit of a correct principle you can never reach a wrong conclusion. Satisfied that the principles of the Constitution would preserve the Union, I never hesitated or debated the question; and when we reflect on the patriotism of those who formed that sacred instrument, and when we know that Washington, the Father of his Country, who, in the language of his eulogist, was "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen," was the President of the Convention which formed the Constitution which we are sworn to support, we cannot but feel for it additional veneration. You, gentlemen, of the Convention, now in session at Annapolis, are engaged in a work similar to that which occupied the attention of our forefathers—the task of amending the Constitution. Theirs' was undertaken at a time when this nation was comparatively a handful of people, and our boundaries comprised within narrow limits. Our resources were but a miniature of what they now are. That wise man asserted that government was instituted for the convenience of man, and to be accommodated to every emergency, this was to be secured by a Constitution founded on the great principle of civil and religious liberty, not to be overrun or borne down by the majority in a storm of fury and passion.

When the requirements and securities of the Constitution are set at naught by a tyrannical majority, and their will made law, liberty is gone and despotism takes its place.

Amendments to the Constitution are to be made in the mode designated by the instrument itself. Washington, having assisted in making that Constitution, says in his farewell address, that the people should submit to the Constitution as it is, and if there is any objection, its amendments should be made in the mode which the instrument itself provides. Now, if this safeguard is not respected, where is free government? None of it is left. In politics, as in religion, when my facts give out and reason fails, my conviction is strong that truth is mighty and will ultimately triumph. Though I may go down and perish, my proud consolation at the last moment will be that I have done my duty, and this for me will be a sufficient reward. In support of the Constitution there are other things to which I must allude. Washington helped to make the Constitution, and handed it down as it is. I am proud, I am gratified, that I have it in my power to-day to stand beneath the roof where that great man spoke the Government into existence and laid down the basis of government. Here, on this consecrated ground, by resigning his commission, he set the great example of love, of freedom and of constitutional government by lifting the crown from his head and laying it at the feet of the people. This is the spot where the great act was performed.

It was here that George Washington tendered his resignation as Commander-in-Chief of the colonies as they then existed, and passed from the soldier to the citizen. He taught an admiring world that to be truly great a man must be truly good. This spot claims that honor. Would to God that we had an example of such wisdom and virtue in modern times. It was left for him to set the example. He performed the act that stands out alone and lifts itself above any other act of any other man who ever lived. Hence I am proud to stand here to-day and refer to subjects so familiar to you all. For the kind, for the sympathetic, and, I think I may add, for the sincere and cordial respect manifested here to-day, you have my thanks, the thanks of a heart which will never cease to be grateful as long as the life current animates it. The remembrance of this kindness will ever be green in my memory. I repeat, I do hope and believe an era of good feeling has commenced. Let us all endeavor to feel better and kinder toward one another. I am satisfied if the North and the South were brought into a closer intimacy there would be a better feeling, for the friction would round the sharp corners and remove the asperity which now exists. Let us try to be one people and go on and fulfil our noble destiny, and I trust through the difficulties which we have just passed, a beneficent Providence will insure for us a more permanent existence. I will not admit that this nation has completed its mission. We are extending our possessions and power, and though some may be opposed to the extension of our jurisdiction, yet, in my honest conviction, the great principle of government, instead of being too weak, as some contend, to cover a greater area, would, if properly carried out, be strong enough to embrace within its sphere and influence the whole civilized world. We have tried too much to make the public mind assume the direction of invention and discovery. We have been making too much law. If we cease to direct and invent the mind to discovery, and ascertain what the law is, conform our action to it, the world, I am sure, would move in more harmonious motion. The North and the South can work in harmony with the Federal Government. The parts are essential to the whole, and the whole is essential to the several parts. Without law the machinery will not work smoothly and accomplish the great ends which it was designed to attain.

Pardon me, my friends, for trespassing so long on your patience, and permit me to conclude by repeating that you and the Governor of the State, the members of this Convention, their Committee, and all that you represent, have my sincere thanks and gratitude for the welcome which has been extended to me on the occasion of my visit to the capital of Maryland.

Upon the conclusion of the remarks by the President,

Mr. Dobbin, Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, stated that the President and party would now be escorted to the Senate Chamber, to receive all who were desirous of paying their respects to His Excellency.

And moved that the Convention do now adjourn.

REPORT:

The Committee on Accounts have carefully considered the question submitted to them by the order of the Convention of the 19th instant, and respectfully report that the business of the Standing Committees, excepting the Committee on Revision and Compilation, and the Committee on Accounts, does not require the retention of all the Clerks authorized at the beginning of the session.

The duties devolving upon this class of officers are now chiefly centered on the Committee on Revision and Compilation; and in order that the clerical work in that Committee may be kept up promptly, and that there may be no delay in adjourning when the business of the Convention is completed, the Committee recommend that the Clerks, excepting the one employed by the Committee on Accounts, be required to report to the Committee on Revision for such duties as may be assigned to them by that Committee. It may be proper to remark that it is not a part of the duty of the Clerk of Revision to prepare the enrolled copies of those parts of the Constitution that have passed the Convention. His time is fully occupied upon the work of engrossing and indexing.

It is absolutely necessary that the enrolling should be promptly kept up to avoid delay in adjourning; and the Committee are of opinion that this end can only be attained by adopting the recommendation they have made.

Respectfully submitted,

JAMES R. HOWISON,

Chairman.

Which was read a first time, and

By special order, (two-thirds of all the members present concurring) a second time, and adopted.

ANNAPOLIS, July 27th, 1867.

HON. GEORGE W. DOBBIN :

My Dear Sir—The papers of this morning report, among the proceedings of the Convention of yesterday, which does me injustice.

Attention was called to an order passed last May, requesting the Clerk of the Court of Appeals to furnish a statement of the receipts and expenses of his office from 1860 to 1866, and to which, it was alleged, "the Clerk had as yet made no response."

This allegation, though no doubt believed to be correct by the honorable gentleman who made it, in Convention, certainly does not accord with the facts of the case. The printed proceedings of your Convention show that the report was made more than a month ago. It was read in Convention, and referred to the Judiciary Committee, of which you are the Chairman.

I do not wish to be placed in the position of having refused compliance with the orders of this Convention. To furnish the information desired by its three orders on this office, a careful and thorough examination of dockets, papers and records throughout a period of many years, became actually necessary. The work consumed my own time, and the time of a clerk, for more than a month, much to the delay of regular office business. Still it was performed, and the information furnished without hesitation.

And not only have I complied with the orders of Convention, but in all sincerity, I can say, whenever called upon by any member of the Convention for statistical information calculated to facilitate the work of remodeling the Constitution, I have, as far as was in my power, furnished it with the utmost promptness and cordiality.

I trust, therefore, I am not trespassing too much on your good services, when I ask the favor of you to correct the misstatement above referred to, and which has been made public through the proceedings of the Convention.

Sincerely and truly yours,

GEORGE EARLE.

See Journal, page 323 ;

On motion of Mr. Rider, party or parties against whom the ruling or decision is made, upon notice, to have the point or question reserved for the consideration of the three Judges of the Circuit, who shall constitute a Court in banc for such purpose ; or said party or parties may elect to have said decision or determination reviewed on appeal to the Court of Appeals, in cases where by law an appeal will lie ; but in all cases of points or questions reserved, the motion therefor shall be entered of record during the sitting, at which such ruling or decision may be made, and such motion shall be a waiver of the right of appeal to the Court of Appeals from such decision or judgment ; and in order that the points or questions reserved may be fairly presented to the Judges in banc, the said Circuit Judge, trying the cause, shall make full and fair notes of such of the proceedings before him, other than the pleadings, as will fully present such points or questions ; and the decision of the said Judges in banc, shall be the effective determination of the point or question reserved, and judgment or other proceedings shall be had thereupon. The right of having questions reserved shall not, however, apply to trials of appeals from judgments of Justices of the Peace ;

Mr. Jones submitted the following amendment, being the Report of the Minority of the Committee, as a substitute for the Report of the Majority of the Committee :

Section 1. The General Assembly may provide for the formation of new counties, locating and removing county seats, and changing county lines, but no new county shall be formed without the consent of a majority of the legal voters residing within the limits of any proposed new county ; and whenever a new county is proposed to be formed out of portions of two or more counties, the consent of a majority of the legal voters residing within the limits of such part of each county as is proposed to be included in such new county shall be necessary to include such part ; nor shall any new county contain less than four hundred square miles nor less than ten thousand white inhabitants ; nor shall any county be reduced below that number of square miles and of white inhabitants ; nor shall the lines of any county be changed without the consent of a majority of the legal voters residing within the limits of the line, or lines, proposed to be changed; and in any law proposing to form a new county, or to change any county line, provision shall be made for the ascertainment of the sense of the legal voters as aforesaid.

Mr. Rider raised the point of order, that the Majority Report having been read through the second time, the substitute submitted by Mr. Jones was not in order.

The President decided that upon a second reading of a Report, it was competent to substitute one for another. A substitute for each section, as read, was in order, and, after being read through, a substitute for the whole was, according to all Parliamentary ruling, also in order; the point of order was, therefore, not well taken.

The President laid before the House the following communication from Mr. Meginniss, Committee Clerk to the Convention :

ANNAPOLIS, July 31, 1867.

Hon. R. B. CARMICHAEL,

President Constitutional Convention :

Dear Sir:—Having accepted the position of Committee Clerk to this body, in good faith, I have been absent for some days endeavoring to so arrange my affairs as to be able to attend strictly and punctually upon the remaining sittings of the Convention; the Convention having lasted much longer than was at first anticipated; and my private business being of such a nature, that I find it absolutely necessary for me to be at home. I would, under these circumstances, most respectfully resign my office of Committee Clerk to the Convention. Receiving which, you will greatly oblige,

Your obedient servant,

N. T. MEGINNISS.

Which was read, and

On motion of Mr. Jones,

The resignation of Mr. Meginniss was accepted.

Mr. Lee gave notice that if the Committee on Revision and Compilation would at any later day of the session require the services of an additional Clerk to fill the place made vacant by the resignation of Mr. Meginniss,—he would move the appointment of such Clerk.

Mr. Hammond submitted the following order :

Ordered, That it be entered on the Journal, that Mr. Bate-man is detained from his seat by sickness ;

Which was adopted.

Mr. Merrick, Chairman Select Committee, submitted the following report :

The Committee to whom was referred the inquiry "Whether it be practicable to divide the State into seven judicial circuits, and if practicable to report a plan of division," have had the same under consideration, and beg leave to report that such a division cannot be made without at least one circuit being disproportionately large, and without imposing upon it an amount of judicial business which the Judges could not dispatch with efficiency. Being of opinion that no saving of expense by the proposed reduction could authorize such a division as might operate a denial of justice to some portion of the State, and that no better division can be made than the one recommended by the Judiciary Committee. We ask to be discharged from the further consideration of the subject.

WM. M. MERRICK,

Chairman.

Which was read and accepted, and,

On motion of Mr. Mitchell, the Committee were discharged.

The Convention then resumed the consideration of the unfinished business of yesterday, being the Report of the Committee appointed to Report upon the Formation of a New County out of portions of Somerset and Worcester Counties.

REPORT :

*The Committee appointed under the following order, to-wit :
By the Convention,*

Ordered, That the Committee upon Public Works and Corporations be instructed to investigate such of the proceedings of the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore as may be deemed necessary by said Committee, and particularly relative to the endorsement by the city of Baltimore of the Union Railroad Company's bonds, and to the building of a new City Hall, and that John H. Barnes, Outerbridge Horsey and Fendall Marbury, members of said Committee, be a Sub-Committee to proceed to Baltimore and there make the investigation.

By order,

MILTON Y. KIDD,

Secretary.

Having discharged the duties imposed upon them under the foregoing order, beg leave to submit the following as the conclusion reached from the investigation, and ask leave to be discharged from the further consideration of the subject:

By an Act of the General Assembly of Maryland, passed February 6th, 1866, chapter 119, the Union Railroad Company of Baltimore was incorporated with power to construct a road from the Relay House, on the Northern Central Railroad, to tidewater at Canton, with lateral roads to the city of Baltimore. By the Act of 1867 a change was made in the route, but in no other particular was the charter changed by that Act.

The charter makes the capital of the Company six hundred thousand dollars, represented by shares of the par value of one hundred dollars each, with a provision that so soon as fifteen hundred shares were subscribed, and one dollar paid on each, the stockholders were authorized to organize the Company and exercise the powers granted in the charter. The initial steps thus pointed out were observed, and subscription books opened, conformable to law, and sixteen hundred and four shares being subscribed, the Company, in due form of law, was organized.

The following is a list of the subscribers' names and the amount taken by each, and also the amount paid:

No. of shares subscribed, 1604 Total cash pd. on act. $1,604

From the foregoing it will be seen that one hundred and four shares, amounting to ten thousand four hundred dollars, covers the individual and firm subscriptions; the residue is by incorporated companies, there still remaining four hundred and thirty-nine thousand six hundred dollars of the authorized capital untaken.

The 5th Section of the Act of 1866, chapter 119, authorizes the collection of their subscription as other debts are collected, or the Company may, in its discretion, remit all subscriptions.

The power to raise money for the construction of the road, and the method indicated, are found in the 2d, 3d, 5th and 11th Sections of the Act of Incorporation. The Sections are as follows :

SECTION 2. And be it enacted, That the capital stock of said Company shall be six hundred thousand dollars, in shares of one hundred dollars each ; and as soon as fifteen hundred shares are subscribed, the subscribers, their successors and assigns, shall be and they are hereby declared to be, incorporated into a Company by the name of the Union Railroad Company of Baltimore, and by that name shall be capable in law of purchasing, holding, selling, leasing and conveying estates, real, personal and mixed, so far as shall be necessary for the purpose herein mentioned, and no further, and shall have perpetual succession ; and by said corporate name may sue and be sued, and may have and use a common seal, which they shall have power to alter and renew at their pleasure ; and shall have, enjoy, and may exercise all the rights and privileges which other corporate bodies may lawfully do for the purposes herein mentioned.

SEC. 3. And be it enacted, That the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore, the Northern Central Railroad Company, the Western Maryland Railroad Company, and the Canton Company, and any other corporation chartered by this State, may, and they are hereby fully authorized and empowered, severally and respectively, each on its own account, to subscribe, as corporations, to the capital stock of said Company, which subscriptions shall be made for the said Mayor and City Council by ordinance, and by the other corporations in the manner in which other corporate acts are by them respectively performed ; and the first subscriptions of the said corporations shall not be deemed to exhaust the power, but each of the said corporations may make other and further subscriptions, if they consider the same expedient and proper ; and the said Mayor and City Council may from time to time borrow money, or issue certificates of indebtedness, to meet any instalments of subscription, and each of said corporations is authorized to issue its bonds to the amount necessary to meet such subscriptions, and to secure such bonds by mortgage or otherwise.

SEC. 5. And be it enacted, That upon every such subscription there shall be paid at the time of subscribing, to the Commissioners, or their agents appointed to receive such subscriptions, to the sum of one dollar per share, and the residue thereof shall be paid in such instalments, and at such times as may be required by the President and Directors of said Company; Provided, That not more than one-half of such subscriptions be demanded in any one year from the commencement of the work, nor any payment demanded until at least thirty days public notice of such demand be given by the said President and Directors, by advertisement published at least once a week for three weeks, in two of the Baltimore papers; and if any subscriber shall fail or neglect to pay any instalments thus demanded for the space of sixty days next after the same shall be due and payable, the stock upon which the same shall be demanded, shall be forfeited to the Company, and may be sold to the said President and Directors for the benefit of the Company; but the President and Directors may proceed for the collection of the same as in cases of other debts, or may remit such subscription or such forfeiture as they may deem proper.

Sec. 11. And be it enacted, That if the subscription obtained be insufficient, the President and Directors, or a majority of them, may issue the bonds of said Company to an amount not exceeding the capital stock authorized by this Act, and may secure the same by mortgage or mortgages upon the property, franchises and revenues of the Company.

The Mayor and City Council of Baltimore, by ordinance approved _____, 1867, undertook to guarantee five hundred thousand dollars of the bonds of the Company. The power thus to act has been questioned, and we think upon sufficient grounds.

Power is given in clear and unmistakable terms in the 3d Section of the Act, to several incorporated companies and to the municipality of Baltimore City to subscribe to the capital stock of the Company, but there is no power conferred upon Baltimore City, or any other corporation, to endorse or guarantee their mortgage bonds. It has been alleged that the 6th Section of the Act when construed in connection with the title of the Bill confers by implication this power. The provisions of the law relied upon as giving the power to endorse, read as follows:

Sec. 6. And be it enacted, That the affairs of the said Company shall be managed by a President and Board of Directors and such other officers and agents as such President and Directors may deem necessary; that there shall be one Director for each five hundred shares of stock subscribed, and also an additional Director on the part of the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore, or any other corporation, for each one hundred thousand dollars of the bonds of said Company, which may be endorsed or guaranteed by the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore, or said other corporation, that if any corporation, including the said Mayor and City Council, shall become subscribers to the said capital stock, to the extent of five hundred shares or more, such corporation shall be represented in the Board of Directors, so long as it is the holder of such stock by one Director for each five hundred of such shares, to be appointed in the manner set forth in the 4th Section of this Act.

TITLE—AN ACT

To incorporate the Union Rail Road Company of Baltimore, and to authorize the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore, the Northern Central and the Western Maryland Railroad Companies, and the Canton Company, to subscribe for the capital stock thereof, and to endorse the mortgage bonds of said Company, passed by the General Assembly of Maryland, January Session, 1866.

It will be seen that the section just quoted, refers to the mode of appointing Directors in the Company, and incidentally provides that in addition to the Directors which Baltimore City may have to represent any stock it may own, it shall also be entitled to one additional Director "for each one hundred thousand dollars of the bonds of said Company which may be endorsed or guaranteed by the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore."

At the time of the passage of the Act, nothing more than a subscription to the stock of the Company was contemplated; and the 6th Section, above quoted, looks, no doubt, to a subsequent Act of the Legislature authorizing the City to endorse the bonds, and anticipating such action, provision is made for Directors to represent any increased interest whenever it should occur. The projectors of this enterprise, no doubt, foresaw the uncertainty of getting stock subscriptions adequate to furnish the work, but felt quite sure if the City of Baltimore could be induced to make a large subscription to the capital stock, it would feel the necessity of coming forward in the end and endorsing enough of the bonds of the Company to complete the work, such action would be necessary in order to save the sum invested in the stock of the Company, and in this way the burthen of carrying this enterprise through, would fall upon the tax payers of Baltimore City.

The capital of the Company is limited to six hundred thousand dollars; the intention evidently was to direct the use of the sum derived from stock subscriptions, before a resort was had to the credit of the Company, and if found inadequate, then an issue of bonds might be resorted to; this is the obvious intent of the 11th Section of the Charter. It reads as follows: "That if the subscriptions obtained be insufficient, the President and Directors, or a majority of them, may issue the bonds of said Company to an amount not exceeding the capital stock authorized by this Act, and may secure the same by mortgage upon the property, franchises and revenues of the Company."

The policy and practice of the State has been to require that all Stock Companies shall have a real and substantial capital value, and it has never encouraged corporate enterprises predicated simply upon debt. In the case of the Union Railroad Company now under consideration, a real Stock basis of $600,000 was doubtless contemplated. The capital thus authorized was intended to be first applied to the construction of a Railroad as far as might answer that purpose, some real and tangible value would thus be created upon which to predicate a loan. But in the absence of such a basis of values, it is difficult to see what the Company could have to mortgage as a security for an issue of $500,000 of bonds, and yet this is just what has been done. The entire enterprise (saving the meagre stock subscriptions obtained) and upon which there has been but one dollar paid in, is predicated upon nothing but bonded debt.

Much of the growth and prosperity of our State, and the onward march of the City of Baltimore in numbers and wealth is due to the successful prosecution of our works of internal improvement, and it is now a well accepted fact, that no community can hope for prosperity if its people are indifferent to the facilities necessary to afford certain rapid and cheap intercourse, and interchange of the products of industry; for it is by such means that vast treasures of wealth are brought into the commerce of the world and made to contribute to the general happiness and progress of man, which otherwise would remain valueless.

The magnitude of such undertakings, however, not unfrequently exceeds individual means, and hence the necessity for Acts of incorporation, uniting and centralizing individual efforts and capital in order to secure the successful accomplishment of such enterprises. The aid of States and Cities have, at times, been invoked and properly given to secure prompt success, and benefits have resulted far in excess of the temporary inconveniences resulting from the non-ability of such undertakings in the beginning to be fully productive. While these things are true, still there is a great necessity for caution, and for legislative restraints lest communities through the snares of the wiley and the designing, and by the recklessness of others should become dangerously involved in debts beyond their means to pay without great suffering and hardship, and thereby cause alarm, when capital to escape the burthens of taxation takes flight, and thus an obstacle to success is created instead of the promised good.

The Legislature has for wise purposes ever been cautious in granting power to one Corporation to participate in the affairs of another or become responsible for debts not properly its own, and whenever this policy has been departed from, it has been by the most open and direct means and the authority so to act is couched in terms neither doubtful nor implied. The necessity for such a course is apparent in order to protect the public against the possibility of frauds, and hold in restraint the constant tendency of Municipal and other Corporations, to pervert and abuse their legitimate authority in doing by indirect means that which they could not obtain authority to accomplish by an open and direct appeal to the Legislature of the State. All such Acts are of evil tendency, and against the spirit of the Law; and to which no citizen can lend himself and claim an immunity from rebuke and a just public censure, even though he may escape punishment by the law.

In respect to the new City Hall now in progress, for full details the Committee visited the office of Mr. Frederick, architect, who exhibited and explained the details and designs of his plan for a new City Hall, which has been approved and adopted by the Commissioners charged with the erection of the building.

The designs contemplate a building of great beauty of style and proportions, and of imposing magnificence, combined with durability and ample accommodations for the present and growing wants of the city.

It is designed to cover the square bounded by Holliday, Fayette, North and Lexington streets, and is two hundred and thirty-one feet by one hundred and fifty feet from Holliday to North streets. The designs contemplate a building three stories high, with interior courts, a central and spacious Rotunda, with dome 234 feet high, with a large number of conveniently arranged apartments, adapted to every present and anticipated wants, with stairways and corridors appropriate and in full proportion to the interior arrangements.

The outer walls are designed to be faced with well selected and durable white marble, skillfully wrought, while iron trusses and groins of masonry support the floors, and will give great firmness and durability, as well as much security against fire.

The Committee are free to say that if the financial condition of the city justified the expenditure, the building contemplated is appropriate, and such as is required by the wants of a city of increasing numbers and wealth.

But when we consider the magnitude of the city debt, and the consequent burthens of taxations weighing down the industry of our people and paralyzing their energies, and that, too, when great financial troubles are impending and the substance of our people is wasting away and values changing, however gratifying it might be to our feelings and our city pride to have such a hall, we are admonished that this is not the time to embark in such expensive enterprise.

Great abuses of power and public confidence have grown up in our city management. With a shameful disregard of the true intention of government and the interest of the citizen and tax payer, large sums of money have been drawn from the City Treasury, merely to bestow patronage upon partizan favorites. The Councils have sanctioned the clandestine use of large sums of money without accountability, and for unworthy purposes ; and in this way much of the city debt, and also a large proportion of the annual expenses of the City Government have been brought about. Cases of individual corruption were indicated to the Committee, but they did not feel themselves at liberty under the order of the Convention, to investigate them, because it would have involved more time than was deemed necessary to bestow, in establishing by official testimony that which is so currently reported, and we think, with just foundation, believed.

Economy in government is at all times a commendable virtue ; at the present it rises to a point of importance never before felt by our people. It is an essential necessity to save us from pecuniary suffering, if not from hopeless bankruptcy. But in the midst of this startling condition of things, the sad experience comes home to us that economy in the use of public money, is a virtue seldom cultivated, and still more rarely practiced.

The hands of those controlling city affairs, judging from past records, know no restraint, and seem lost to the virtue of economy. Where the public treasury is open to the cupidity of the unscrupulous, and not guarded by moral integrity there is little hope for the tax payer.

The Mayor and City Council, by ordinance approved September 25th, 1865, provided for the appointment of Commissioners, who were authorized to adopt plans, and proceed to the erection of the new City Hall ; and the same ordinance directs the Commissioners of Finance to issue five hundred thousand dollars of city bonds, and dispose of them at market rates, and apply the proceeds to this purpose.

The Eleventh Section of this Ordinance required that it should not go into effect until authority was obtained from the General Assembly of Maryland to issue these bonds. In 1866 the Legislature gave their sanction to the issue of six hundred thousand dollars, and therefore and to that extent the authority of the Mayor and City Council is undoubted, and had the cost of the building in all its parts and furnishings, when completely finished, been limited to the amount realized from the sale of the bonds authorized to be sold, their legal rights could not have been doubted. But the plan adopted will far exceed the amount authorized by the Ordinance or by the approving act of the Legislature of 1866, chapter 1.

The architect's estimated cost is eight hundred thousand dollars, if his plans are adhered to, and proper economy practiced. Such a hope, however, is, we think, a vain delusion, and if the work progresses at all in these expensive times of building, but little less than a million and a half of dollars may confidently be expected as the final cost.

We can hardly suppose, nor do we believe, that the powers granted in the Ordinance of 1865, to use for this purpose half a million of bonds, ever authorized the mere beginning of a building, the ultimate cost of which was to greatly exceed the amount set apart, and beyond which they had no right to go. The sum appropriated contemplated payment in full for a finished building, not to lay the foundation and rear outer walls, merely or partially construct the edifice, but to finish it in all its detail and in every part. If any other purpose was contemplated it does not appear upon the face of the law, and the Commissioners are not at liberty to go beyond its clear requirements, nor could the Mayor and City Council grant any powers to them in the premises not previously authorized by the Legislature.

The Mayor and City Council in their powers are limited by Legislative enactments, and the Commissioners are limited by the ordinance, and neither can go beyond them. If the Commissioners appointed under the Ordinance of 1865, or the Mayor and City Council had the power to exceed the sum authorized, then they could as well have proceeded without any authority. To exceed the law is as grave an offence as to proceed without law, and to do so is so grave an offence that the seal of public condemnation should be set upon all who participate in it.

The continued increase of the debt of Baltimore City is a subject of painful anxiety to its citizens. Each returning year has brought its augmentation, until now the burthens are intolerable, and its effect must be disastrous to the prosperity of the City and to the State also. From the fear of heavy taxation, capital will shun us, personal property will hide itself, and thereby the basis of taxation will diminish while the debt increases, and thus the burthen must, and will, in the end, fall with crushing weight upon real estate.

The effect of public debt upon communities, is the same as debt upon individuals. It shuts the door of hope—dispirits and paralyzes their energies. A public debt is a public calamity that curses the living, and wastes the estate of the dead. Its enormity at this time in the several departments of our government, is a source of serious alarm to the prudent and thoughtful. So great is the debt of the Federal and State Governments, that when added to those of a local and municipal character, an army of agents and tax-gatherers, at great expense to the people, have to be maintained to gather from them the means to pay the interest, much less the principal. Every branch of industry feels the burthen; every transaction, great or small, has some burthen upon it; property is burthened; the earnings of toil, whether of body or mind, is visited; the home that shelters is taxed; the garments we wear are taxed; the bread that satisfies our hunger is taxed; everything is taxed. No man is so much dreaded and shunned as the tax-gatherer. The rich hide themselves to escape his inquisitorial visits. The poor meet him with sad and angry countenance. His presence is everywhere and among all men, like the blight that kills and the pestilence that desolates, and leaves little else than grief and suffering.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JNO. H. BARNES, Ch'n.

FENDALL MARBURY.

O. HORSEY.

On motion of Mr. Carter,

The Reports were opened for amendment by the Committee upon Revision and Compilation.

Mr. Lee, Chairman of the Committee upon Revision and Compilation submitted the following

REPORT:

The Committee on Revision and Compilation, to which the Engrossed Report of the Committee upon a Proper Basis of Representation in the two Houses of the General Assembly, and a proper Apportionment of Representatives in the same, and the Engrossed Report of the Committee upon the Legislative Department were severally referred, has carefully revised the said Reports, and recommends that they be united under the title Legislative Department, with the following Amendments. The lines and Sections referred to are those of the copies of the Engrossed Reports printed under the order of the Convention of June 20th, 1867 :

1. 1st Section, 2d line, Legislative Department, strike out the word "which," and insert the word "and."

2. Insert as the 2d Section the following: "Each county in the State, and each of the Legislative Districts of Baltimore city, as they are now, or may hereafter be defined, shall be entitled to one Senator, who shall be elected by the qualified voters of the counties, and of the Legislative Districts of Baltimore city, respectively, and shall serve for four years from the day of his election, subject to the classification of Senators hereinafter provided for.

3. Strike out Section 1, from the Report upon a Proper Basis of Representation in the two Houses of the General Assembly, &c., and insert Sections 2, 3 and 4 as proposed to be amended, of same Report as Sections 3, 4 and 5 in the Report upon the Legislative Department.

4. Number Section 2, in the Report upon the Legislative Department, Section 6, and number the subsequent Sections of the same Report in numerical order down to Section 48, which transpose and number 56; number Sections 49, 50, 51, 52 as Sections 52, 53, 54, 55.

5. Section 9, line 9, Engrossed Report upon the Legislative Department. After the word "election" strike out to the word "termination," in line 13, inclusive, and insert the words, "and if during the recess of the Legislature, and more than ten days before its termination, such death shall occur, or such resignation, refusal to act, or disqualification be communicated in writing to the Governor by the person so resigning, refusing, or disqualified."

6. Section 21, line 2, (same Engrossed Report.) After the word "nor," insert the word "adjourn."

Respectfully submitted,

J. F. LEE,

Chairman.

Which was adopted.

Mr. Lee also submitted the following Report :

The Committee on Revision and Compilation, to which was referred the Engrossed Report upon the Rate of Interest and the Usury Laws of this State, has carefully considered the same, and reports that the Section, as passed to a third reading, leaves the Statute Law and the power of the Legislature as they would be if it be omitted. It would, therefore, be useless and of no effect ; and the Committee recommends that it be now rejected.

Respectfully submitted,

J. F. LEE,

Chairman.

Which was read.

On motion of Mr. Carter,

The Report of the Committee upon the Legislative Department was opened for amendment, to consider Section 57, viz :

And it shall and may be lawful for the General Assembly of this State to extend the period for which the said Commissioners or their successors may act for a further term of five years, and for such further term of five years as may appear to be conducive to the prosperity and good management of the said Chesapeake and Ohio Canal.

Provided, however, That it shall and may be lawful for the General Assembly of Maryland, in case it should appear that the interests of the State demand a change, to make such alterations in the management of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, and in voting the stock of the State in the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company as the said General Assembly may deem best.

And provided, further, That in whatever changes the General Assembly may hereafter make in the management and control of said company, or voting the stock of the State in said company, the said General Assembly shall be bound to give, as far as possible, permanency and efficiency in the management of said Canal, and exemption from partizan or political control. •

Sec. 3. The Board of Public Works shall cast the vote of the State of Maryland as stockholder in the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, at the meetings of the Stockholders of said company, for President and Directors of said Company, for President and two Directors of said Company of their own selection, and for two Directors to be nominated in writing by the Trustees under the mortgage executed by said Company in pursuance of the act of 1844, chapter 281, and their successors, and for two Directors to be nominated in writing by the Trustees of the Scripholders and other creditors of said Company except the State of Maryland and the State of Virginia, and the holders of Repair Bonds (the mode of appointing which Trustees is hereinafter provided for,) but no person shall be chosen as President of said Company who shall not have been for five years next preceding his election a citizen of the State of Maryland, and resident of Allegany county, and four of the Directors shall be citizens of the State of Maryland, and residents of the counties of Allegany, Washington, Frederick or Montgomery, and one a resident of the District of Columbia, but not more than two of said Directors shall be residents of the same county at the time of their election, or during their continuance in office.

Sec. —. As soon as practicable after the adoption of this Constitution one or more of said creditors may give notice, to be published for three weeks successively in one or more newspapers printed in the counties of Allegany, Washington, Frederick and Montgomery, and in any other papers if deemed expedient, of a general meeting of said creditors to be held in the city of Cumberland on a day to be named in said notice, for the purpose of electing three Trustees to represent said creditors, and make the nomination in writing from time to time of said two Directors to the Board of Public Works, and said Trustees shall be elected for two years, and until their successors are elected; and at the first meeting of said creditors they shall fix such time and place of holding their next and other meetings for the election of Trustees, in such manner of giving notice thereof as they may deem expedient, and at all meetings of said creditors a majority in amount of the debts represented at the meeting shall be sufficient to elect said Trustees, or decide any proposition that may come before the meeting; and the evidence of the right of any one to participate as a creditor in said meetings shall be the scrip, or certificate of the Secretary of the Company, or an authenticated copy of a judgment against said Company, or such other evidence of indebtedness of said Company as said creditors at such meetings may deem sufficient.

By Mr. Barnes.

Sec. 3. In the election of the President and Directors of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, the Board of Public Works shall cast the vote of the State for three Directors from among such persons as may be nominated by the trustees named in a deed of mortgage from said Canal Company to Phineas Janney and others, executed on the 5th day of June, 1848, in pursuance of an Act of General Assembly of Maryland of 1844, ch. 281, and their successors. And in like manner from among such persons as may be nominated by a majority in interest of all other creditors, other than lien creditors, one Director, and for the President and two other Directors, the vote of the State shall be cast by the said Board of Public Works for such persons as said Board may deem qualified for the discharge of their respective duties. Provided the President and five of said Directors, at the time of their election and for five years previous, shall have been residents of the State of Maryland; and this mode of electing the President and Directors shall continue until the preferred debt now owing shall be paid, or until the Legislature shall otherwise provide.

And it shall be the duty of the President and Directors of said Canal Company to make to the Comptroller of the State true and accurate quarterly statements of all revenues and expenses of said Canal, and to deposit semi-annually with the Treasurer of the State, all surplus earnings above the necessary expenses incident to maintaining the Canal in a good and efficient state of repair, and such further sum as is necessary to pay the annual accruing interest upon the principal sum of the preferred debt or debts owing.

And the Treasurer of the State shall, from time to time, invest such surplus and the increment thereon in a sinking fund, until it shall be sufficient to redeem the principal and over-due interest of said preferred debt or debts. And should either class of the creditors of said Company make default in nominating for Directors at any election, the provisions of this Section, so far as it applies to the defaulting class of creditors at such election, shall be inoperative and void.

And the President and Directors of said Canal shall have the power to establish, and from time to time alter the same, such rates of tolls as may be by them deemed necessary to secure the largest amount of revenue therefrom, within the limits prescribed by the charter of said Company.

Mr. Walsh submitted the following amendment to be inserted as Section 3:

Sec. 3. The Board of Public Works shall cast the vote of the State of Maryland as stockholder in the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, at the meetings of the Stockholders of said company, for President and Directors of said Company, for President and two Directors of said Company of their own selection, and for two Directors to be nominated in writing by the Trustees under the mortgage executed by said Company in pursuance of the act of 1844, chapter 281, and their successors, and for two Directors to be nominated in writing by the Trustees of the Scripholders and other creditors of said Company except the State of Maryland and the State of Virginia, and the holders of Repair Bonds (the mode of appointing which Trustees is hereinafter provided for,) but no person shall be chosen as President of said Company who shall not have been for five years next preceding his election a citizen of the State of Maryland, and resident of Allegany county, and four of the Directors shall be citizens of the State of Maryland, and residents of the counties of Allegany, Washington, Frederick or Montgomery, and one a resident of the District of Columbia, but not more than two of said Directors shall be residents of the same county at the time of their election, or during their continuance in office.

Sec. —. As soon as practicable after the adoption of this Constitution one or more of said creditors may give notice, to be published for three weeks successively in one or more newspapers printed in the counties of Allegany, Washington, Frederick and Montgomery, and in any other papers if deemed expedient, of a general meeting of said creditors to be held in the city of Cumberland on a day to be named in said notice, for the purpose of electing three Trustees to represent said creditors, and make the nomination in writing from time to time of said two Directors to the Board of Public Works, and said Trustees shall be elected for two years, and until their successors are elected; and at the first meeting of said creditors they shall fix such time and place of holding their next and other meetings for the election of Trustees, in such manner of giving notice thereof as they may deem expedient, and at all meetings of said creditors a majority in amount of the debts represented at the meeting shall be sufficient to elect said Trustees, or decide any proposition that may come before the meeting; and the evidence of the right of any one to participate as a creditor in said meetings shall be the scrip, or certificate of the Secretary of the Company, or an authenticated copy of a judgment against said Company, or such other evidence of indebtedness of said Company as said creditors at such meetings may deem sufficient.

Sec. —. The said President and Directors shall keep the said Canal in good navigable order and repair for permanent use, and provide the necessary supply of water, and shall have full power to manage the business and regulate the tolls of said Canal according to its charter, and pay salaries of the officers and current expenses, including the repair debt, before any of the tolls and revenues shall be otherwise applied by them, and shall then pay the annual interest henceforth accruing on the bonds secured by said mortgage, and shall from time to time apply the surplus revenues to the extinguishment of such of said bonds as the holders thereof may be willing to receive the current market value for, provided said President and Directors shall not apply said surplus to the satisfaction of any of said bonds which they or either of them may be the holders of, and all the bonds so extinguished shall be registered and delivered over to the Treasurer of the State of Maryland, and the said President and Directors shall report quarterly to the Board of Public Works a detailed statement of the tolls and revenues of said Canal, and the amount, nature, and character of their expenditures which reports shall be verified by the affidavit of the President.

Which was read.

Mr. Barnes submitted the following as a substitute for the amendment submitted by Mr. Walsh:

Sec. 3. In the election of the President and Directors of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, the Board of Public Works shall cast the vote of the State for three Directors from among such persons as may be nominated by the trustees named in a deed of mortgage from said Canal Company to Phineas Janney and others, executed on the 5th day of June, 1848, in pursuance of an Act of General Assembly of Maryland of 1844, ch. 281, and their successors. And in like manner from among such persons as may be nominated by a majority in interest of all other creditors, other than lien creditors, one Director, and for the President and two other Directors, the vote of the State shall be cast by the said Board of Public Works for such persons as said Board may deem qualified for the discharge of their respective duties. Provided the President and five of said Directors, at the time of their election and for five years previous, shall have been residents of the State of Maryland; and this mode of electing the President and Directors shall continue until the preferred debt now owing shall be paid, or until the Legislature shall otherwise provide.

And it shall be the duty of the President and Directors of said Canal Company to make to the Comptroller of the State true and accurate quarterly statements of all revenues and expenses of said Canal, and to deposit semi-annually with the Treasurer of the State, all surplus earnings above the necessary expenses incident to maintaining the Canal in a good and efficient state of repair, and such further sum as is necessary to pay the annual accruing interest upon the principal sum of the preferred debt or debts owing.

And the Treasurer of the State shall, from time to time, invest such surplus and the increment thereon in a sinking fund, until it shall be sufficient to redeem the principal and over-due interest of said preferred debt or debts. And should either class of the creditors of said Company make default in nominating for Directors at any election, the provisions of this Section, so far as it applies to the defaulting class of creditors at such election, shall be inoperative and void.

And the President and Directors of said Canal shall have the power to establish, and from time to time alter the same, such rates of tolls as may be by them deemed necessary to secure the largest amount of revenue therefrom, within the limits prescribed by the charter of said Company.

Which was read.

Mr. Wilkinson submitted the following amendment as a substitute for the whole :

Sec. 3. The entire net revenue of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company shall be applied to the payment of the principal and interest of the preferred bonds in the following manner :

After paying the annual interest upon the original principal, the balance, if any remains, shall be paid pro rata to the bondholders at the time of the payments of annual interest, and in the manner prescribed for the payment of said interest by the Act of 1844, chapter 281, until the accrued interest shall have been paid off, after which time the surplus shall be appropriated as a sinking fund for the redemption of the principal of the bonds as provided in the said Act.

Pending the consideration of which,

The order which was, on yesterday, unanimously adopted, tendering a vote of thanks to the President, was read.

The President then arose and delivered the following address:

Gentlemen of the Convention:

Words are not required to convey the high sense which fills me, of this parting testimony. Be your hearts my true interpreter! It is another fair flower wove in the chaplet with which your favor crowned me at the beginning of our session.

One thing I would have you believe truly—that it has been the constant purpose of my mind and heart to deserve it.

Whatever of error or short-coming has obtained in my administration of the duties of this high place, this generous vote has cancelled.

I renew and repeat my thanks. You will carry home with you, individually and collectively, one and all, and you will possess through life, my sincere regard and best wishes.

It may be permitted me to say, that the members of this Convention have borne their relations here, to the Sta^t to each other, as became themselves and the occasion—~~diff-~~ ing often and earnestly, with the warmth of conscious truth, but with the forbearance which belongs to virtuous life and education. May I add that another—one other duty belongs to this relation: That we take this Constitution to the people for their sanction and approval; that we explain it truly and patiently. This duty we do owe to the State, to each other, and to ourselves. If it be done, and faithfully, this Constitution the people will pronounce “good.” It has been wrought into form amid the chaos resulting from political convulsions. It cannot have vital force but by the fiat of the popular will.

Continue, then, your labors, without faltering, to the end;
 and, betide what may, we shall enjoy the solace that we have fought “the good fight,” that we “have kept the faith.”

With my thanks again, gentlemen, I take leave of you.

Farewell! farewell!

The President then, at 2 o'clock and 30 minutes P. M., pronounced the Convention adjourned sine die.

THE CONSTITUTION.

DECLARATION OF RIGHTS.

We, the people of the State of Maryland, grateful to Almighty God for our civil and religious liberty, and taking into our serious consideration the best means of establishing a good Constitution in this State for the sure foundation and more permanent security thereof; declare,

•ARTICLE 1. That all government of right originates from the people, is founded in compact only, and instituted solely for the good of the whole; and they have at all times, the inalienable right to alter, reform or abolish, their Form of Government, in such manner as they may deem expedient.

ART. 2. The Constitution of the United States, and the Laws made, or which shall be made in pursuance thereof, and all Treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, are, and shall be the Supreme Law of the State; and the Judges of this State, and all the people of this State, are, and shall be bound thereby; anything in the Constitution or Law of this State to the contrary notwithstanding.

ART. 3. The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution thereof, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States, respectively, or to the people thereof.

ART. 4. That the people of this State have the sole and exclusive right of regulating the internal government and police thereof, as a free, sovereign and independent State.

ART. 5. That the Inhabitants of Maryland are entitled to the Common Law of England, and the trial by jury, according to the course of that Law, and to the benefit of such of the English Statutes, as existed on the Fourth day of July, seventeen hundred and seventy-six, and which, by experience, have been found applicable to their local and other circumstances; and have been introduced, used and practiced by the Courts of Law or Equity; and also of all Acts of Assembly in force on the first day of June, eighteen hundred and sixty-seven ; except such as may have since expired, or may be inconsistent with the provisions of this Constitution ; subject, nevertheless, to the revision of, and amendment or repeal by the Legislature of this State ; and the Inhabitants of Maryland are also entitled to all property derived to them from, or under the Charter granted by His Majesty, Charles the First to Cæcilius Calvert, Baron, of Baltimore.

ART. 6. That all persons invested with the Legislative or Executive powers of Government are the Trustees of the Public, and as such, accountable for their conduct :—Wherefore, whenever the ends of Government are perverted, and public liberty manifestly endangered, and all other means of redress are ineffectual, the people may, and of right ought to reform the old, or establish a new Government ; the doctrine of non-resistance against arbitrary power and oppression is absurd, slavish and destructive of the good and happiness of mankind.

ART. 7. That the right of the people to participate in the Legislature is the best security of liberty, and the foundation of all free Government ; for this purpose, elections ought to be free and frequent ; and every white male citizen, having the qualifications prescribed by the Constitution, ought to have the right of suffrage.

ART. 8. That the Legislative, Executive and Judicial powers of Government ought to be forever separate and distinct from each other ; and no person exercising the functions of one of said Departments, shall assume, or discharge the duties of any other.

ART. 9. That no power of suspending Laws, or the execution of Laws, unless by, or derived from the Legislature, ought to be exercised, or allowed.

ART. 10. That freedom of speech and debate, or proceedings in the Legislature ought not to be impeached in any Court of Judicature.

ART. 11. That Annapolis be the place of meeting of the Legislature ; and the Legislature ought not to be convened, or held at any other place but from evident necessity.

ART. 12. That for redress of grievances, and for amending, strengthening and preserving the Laws, the Legislature ought to be frequently convened.

ART. 13. That every man hath a right to petition the Legislature for the redress of grievances in a peaceable and orderly manner.

ART. 14. That no aid, charge, tax, burthen, or fees ought to be rated or levied, under any pretence, without the consent of the Legislature.

ART. 15. That the levying of taxes by the poll is grievous and oppressive, and ought to be prohibited; that paupers ought not to be assessed for the support of the Government; but every person in the State, or person holding property therein, ought to contribute his proportion of public taxes for the support of the Government, according to his actual worth in real or personal property; yet, fines, duties or taxes may properly and justly be imposed, or laid, with a political view, for the good Government and benefit of the community.

ART. 16. That sanguinary Laws ought to be avoided as far as it is consistent with the safety of the State; and no Law to inflict cruel and unusual pains and penalties ought to be made in any case, or at any time hereafter.

ART. 17. That retrospective Laws, punishing acts committed before the existence of such Laws, and by them only declared criminal, are oppressive, unjust and incompatible with liberty; wherefore, no ex post facto Law ought to be made, nor any retrospective oath, or restriction be imposed, or required.

ART. 18. That no Law to attain particular persons of treason, or felony ought to be made in any case, or at any time hereafter.

ART. 19. That every man for any injury done to him in his person, or property, ought to have remedy by the course of the Law of the land, and ought to have justice and right, freely without sale, fully without any denial, and speedily without delay, according to the Law of the Land.

ART. 20. That the trial of facts, where they arise, is one of the greatest securities of the lives, liberties and estate of the people.

ART. 21. That in all criminal prosecutions, every man hath a right to be informed of the accusation against him; to have a copy of the indictment, or charge, in due time, if required, to prepare for his defence; to be allowed counsel; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have process for his witnesses; to examine the witnesses for and against him on oath; and to a speedy trial by an impartial jury, without whose unanimous consent he ought not to be found guilty.

ART. 22. That no man ought to be compelled to give evidence against himself in a criminal case.

ART. 23. That no man ought to be taken, or imprisoned, or disseized of his freehold, liberties or privileges, or outlawed, or exiled, or in any manner destroyed, or deprived of his life, liberty or property but by the judgment of his peers, or by the Law of the Land.

ART. 24. That Slavery shall not be re-established in this State, but having been abolished, under the policy and authority of the United States, compensation, in consideration thereof, is due from the United States.

ART. 25. That excessive bail ought not to be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel or unusual punishment inflicted by the Courts of Law.

ART. 26. That all warrants, without oath or affirmation, to search suspected places, or to seize any person, or property, are grievous and oppressive; and all general warrants to search suspected places, or to apprehend suspected persons, without naming or describing the place, or the person in special, are illegal, and ought not to be granted.

ART. 27. That no conviction shall work corruption of blood, or forfeiture of estate.

ART. 28. That a well regulated Militia is the proper and natural defence of a free Government.

ART. 29. That Standing Armies are dangerous to liberty, and ought not to be raised, or kept up without the consent of the Legislature.

ART. 30. That in all cases, and at all times, the Military ought to be under strict subordination to, and control of the civil power.

ART. 31. That no soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner, nor, in time of war, except in the manner prescribed by Law.

ART. 32. That no person except regular soldiers, and marines and mariners in the service of this State, or Militia, when in actual service, ought, in any case, to be subject to, or punishable by Martial Law.

ART. 33. That the independence and uprightness of Judges are essential to the impartial administration of justice, and a great security to the rights and liberties of the people; wherefore, the Judges shall not be removed except in the manner, and for the causes provided in this Constitution. No Judge shall hold any other office, civil or military, or political trust, or employment of any kind, whatsoever, under the Constitution or Laws of this State, or of the United States, or any of them; or receive fees, or perquisites of any kind for the discharge of his official duties.

ART. 34. That a long continuance in the Executive Departments of power, or trust, is dangerous to liberty ; a rotation, therefore, in those Departments, is one of the best securities of permanent freedom.

ART. 35. That no person shall hold, at the same time, more than one office of profit, created by the Constitution or Laws of this State ; nor shall any person in public trust receive any present from any foreign Prince or State, or from the United States, or any of them, without the approbation of this State.

ART. 36. That as it is the duty of every man to worship God in such manner as he thinks most acceptable to him, all persons are equally entitled to protection in their religious liberty ; wherefore, no person ought, by any Law, to be molested in his person or estate, on account of his religious persuasion, or profession, or for his religious practice, unless under the color of religion he shall disturb the good order, peace or safety of the State, or shall infringe the Laws of morality, or injure others in their natural, civil or religious rights, nor ought any person to be compelled to frequent, or maintain, or contribute, unless on contract, to maintain any place of worship, or any ministry ; nor shall any person, otherwise competent, be deemed incompetent, as a witness, or juror, on account of his religious belief ; provided, he believes in the existence of God, and that, under His dispensation, such person will be held morally accountable for his acts, and be rewarded or punished therefor, either in this world, or the world to come.

ART. 37. That no religious test ought ever to be required as a qualification for any office of profit or trust, in this State, other than a declaration of belief in the existence of God ; nor shall the Legislature prescribe any other oath of office than the oath prescribed by this Constitution.

ART. 38. That every gift, sale or devise of land, to any Minister, Public Teacher or Preacher of the Gospel, as such, or to any Religious Sect, Order or Denomination, or to, or for the support, use or benefit of, or in trust for any Minister, Public Teacher or Preacher of the Gospel, as such, or any Religious Sect, Order or Denomination, and every gift, or sale of goods, or chattels, to go in succession, or to take place after the death of the Seller or Donor, to or for such support, use or benefit, and also every devise of goods, or chattels to or for the support or benefit of any Minister, Public Teacher or Preacher of the Gospel, as such, or any Religious Sect, Order or Denomination, without the prior, or subsequent sanction of the Legislature, shall be void ; except always, any sale, gift, lease, or devise of any quantity of land, not exceeding five acres, for a Church, Meeting House, or other House of Worship, or Parsonage, or for a Burying Ground, which shall be improved, enjoyed, or used only for such purpose; or such sale, gift, lease, or devise, shall be void.

ART. 39. That the manner of administering an oath, or affirmation to any person ought to be such as those of the religious persuasion, profession, or denomination, of which he is a member, generally esteem the most effectual confirmation by the attestation of the Divine Being.

ART. 40. That the liberty of the press ought to be inviolably preserved; that every citizen of the State ought to be allowed to speak, write and publish his sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of that privilege.

ART. 41. That monopolies are odious, contrary to the spirit of a free government and the principles of commerce, and ought not to be suffered.

ART. 42. That no title of nobility, or hereditary honors, ought to be granted in this State.

ART. 43. That the Legislature ought to encourage the diffusion of knowledge and virtue, the extension of a judicious system of general education, the promotion of literature, the arts, sciences, agriculture, commerce and manufactures, and the general melioration of the condition of the people.

ART. 44. That the provisions of the Constitution of the United States, and of this State, apply as well in time of war as in time of peace; and any departure therefrom, or violation thereof, under the plea of necessity, or any other plea, is subversive of good government, and tends to anarchy and despotism.

ART. 45. This enumeration of rights shall not be construed to impair, or deny others retained by the People.

Sec. 3. If any person shall give, or offer to give, directly or indirectly, any bribe, present or reward, or any promise, or any security for the payment or the delivery of money, or any other thing, to induce any voter to refrain from casting his vote, or to prevent him in any way from voting, or to procure a vote for any candidate, or person, proposed, or voted for, as Elector of President and Vice President of the United States, or Representative in Congress, or for any office of profit or trust, created by the Constitution or Laws of this State, or by the ordinances or authority of the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore, the person giving, or offering to give, and the person receiving the same, and any person who gives, or causes to be given, an illegal vote, knowing it to be such, at any election to be held hereafter in this State, shall, on conviction in a Court of Law, in addition to the penalties now or hereafter to be imposed by Law, be forever disqualified to hold any office of profit or trust, or to vote at any election thereafter.

Sec. 4. It shall be the duty of the General Assembly to pass Laws to punish, with fine and imprisonment, any person who shall remove into any election district, or precinct of any ward in the City of Baltimore, not for the purpose of acquiring a bona fide residence therein, but for the purpose of voting at an approaching election, or who shall vote in any election district, or ward, in which he does not reside, (except in the case provided for in this Article, or shall, at the same election, vote in more than one election district or precinct, or shall vote or offer to vote in any name not his own, or in place of any other person of the same name, or shall vote in any county in which he does not reside.

Sec. 5. The General Assembly shall provide by Law for a uniform registration of the names of all the voters in this State, who possess the qualifications prescribed in this Article; which registration shall be conclusive evidence to the Judges of election of the right of every person, thus registered, to vote at any election thereafter held in this State; but no person shall vote at any election, Federal or State, hereafter to be held in this State, or at any municipal election in the City of Baltimore, unless his name appears in the list of registered voters; and until the General Assembly shall hereafter pass an Act for the registration of the names of voters, the Law in force on the first day of June, in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-seven, in reference thereto, shall be continued in force, except so far as it may be inconsistent with the provisions of this Constitution; and the registry of voters, made in pursuance thereof, may be corrected as provided in said Law; but the names of all persons shall be added to the list of qualified voters by the officers of Registration, who have the qualifications, prescribed in the first section of this Article, and who are not disqualified under the provisions of the second and third sections thereof.

Sec. 6. Every person, elected, or appointed to any office of profit or trust, under this Constitution, or under the Laws made pursuant thereto, shall, before he enters upon the duties of such office, take and subscribe the following oath, or affirmation: I, ——— do swear (or affirm, as the case may be,) that I will support the Constitution of the United States, and that I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to the State of Maryland, and support the Constitution and Laws thereof; and that I will, to the best of my skill and judgment, diligently and faithfully, without partiality, or prejudice, execute the office of ———, according to the Constitution and Laws of the State (and if a Governor, Senator, Member of the House of Delegates, or Judge,) that I will not directly, or indirectly, receive the profits, or any part of the profits, of any other office during the term of my acting as ———.

Sec. 7. Every person, hereafter elected, or appointed to office, in this State, who shall refuse, or neglect to take the oath or affirmation of office, provided for in the sixth section of this article, shall be considered as having refused to accept the said office; and a new election, or appointment, shall be made, as in case of refusal to accept, or resignation of an office; and any person violating said oath, shall, on conviction thereof, in a Court of Law, in addition to the penalties now, or hereafter, to be imposed by Law, be thereafter incapable of holding any office of profit or trust in this State.

ARTICLE II. EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

Section 1. The Executive power of the State shall be vested in a Governor, whose term of office shall commence on the second Wednesday of January next ensuing his election, and continue for four years, and until his successor shall have qualified ; but the Governor chosen at the first election under this Constitution, shall not enter upon the discharge of the duties of the office until the expiration of the term for which the present incumbent was elected, unless the said office shall become vacant by death, resignation, removal from the State, or other disqualification of the said incumbent.

Sec. 2. An election for Governor under this Constitution, shall be held on the Tuesday next after the first Monday of November, in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-seven, and on the same day and month in every fourth year thereafter, at the place of voting for Delegates to the General Assembly ; and every person qualified to vote for Delegates shall be qualified and entitled to vote for Governor ; the election to be held in the same manner as the election of Delegates ; and the returns thereof, under seal, to be addressed to the Speaker of the House of Delegates, and enclosed and transmitted to the Secretary of State, and delivered to said Speaker at the commencement of the session of the General Assembly next ensuing said election.

Sec. 3. The Speaker of the House of Delegates shall then open the said Returns in the presence of both Houses ; and the person having the highest number of votes, and being constitutionally eligible, shall be the Governor, and shall qualify, in the manner herein prescribed, on the second Wednesday of January next ensuing his election, or as soon thereafter as may be practicable.

Sec. 4. If two or more persons shall have the highest and an equal number of votes for Governor, one of them shall be chosen Governor by the Senate and House of Delegates ; and all questions in relation to the eligibility of Governor, and to the Returns of said election, and to the number and legality of votes therein given, shall be determined by the House of Delegates ; and if the person, or persons having the highest number of votes, be ineligible, the Governor shall be chosen by the Senate and House of Delegates. Every election of Governor, by the General Assembly, shall be determined by a joint majority of the Senate and House of Delegates, and the vote shall be taken viva voce; but if two or more persons shall have the highest and an equal number of votes, then a second vote shall be taken, which shall be confined to the persons having an equal number ; and if the vote should again be equal, then the election of Governor shall be determined by lot between those who shall have the highest and an equal number on the first vote.

Sec. 5. A person to be eligible to the office of Governor, must have attained the age of thirty years, and must have been for ten years a citizen of the State of Maryland, and for five years next preceding his election, a resident of the State, and at the time of his election a qualified voter therein.

Sec. 6. In case of the death or resignation of the Governor, or of his removal from the State, or other disqualification, the General Assembly, if in session, or, if not, at their next session, shall elect some other qualified person to be Governor for the residue of the term for which the said Governor had been elected.

Sec. 7. In case of any vacancy in the office of Governor, during the recess of the Legislature, the President of the Senate shall discharge the duties of said office until a Governor is elected, as herein provided for; and in case of the death or resignation of the said President, or of his removal from the State, or of his refusal to serve, then the duties of said office shall, in like manner, and for the same interval, devolve upon the Speaker of the House of Delegates; and the Legislature may provide by Law for the impeachment of the Governor, and in case of his conviction, or his inability, may declare what person shall perform the Executive duties; and for any vacancy in said office not herein provided for, provision may be made by Law; and if such vacancy should occur without such provision being made, the Legislature shall be convened by the Secretary of State for the purpose of filling said vacancy.

Sec. 8. The Governor shall be the Commander-in-Chief of the Land and Naval Forces of the State, and may call out the Militia to repel invasions, suppress insurrections, and enforce the execution of the Laws; but shall not take the command in person without the consent of the Legislature.

Sec. 9. He shall take care that the Laws are faithfully executed.

Sec. 10. He shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, appoint all civil and military officers of the State, whose appointment or election is not otherwise herein provided for; unless a different mode of appointment be prescribed by the Law creating the office.

Sec. 11. In case of any vacancy, during the recess of the Senate, in any office, which the Governor has power to fill, he shall appoint some suitable person to said office, whose commission shall continue in force until the end of the next session of the Legislature, or until some other person is appointed to the same office, whichever shall first occur; and the nomination of the person thus appointed during the recess, or of some other person in his place, shall be made to the Senate, within thirty days after the next meeting of the Legislature.

Sec. 12. No person, after being rejected by the Senate, shall be again nominated for the same office at the same session, unless at the request of the Senate; or be appointed to the same office during the recess of the Legislature.

Sec. 13. All civil officers, appointed by the Governor and Senate, shall be nominated to the Senate within fifty days from the commencement of each regular session of the Legislature; and their term of office, except in cases otherwise provided for in this Constitution, shall commence on the first Monday of May next ensuing their appointment, and continue for two years unless removed from office, and until their successors respectively qualify according to Law; but the term of office of the Inspectors of Tobacco shall commence on the first Monday of March next ensuing their appointment.

Sec. 14. If a vacancy shall occur during the session of the Senate, in any office, which the Governor and Senate have the power to fill, the Governor shall nominate to the Senate before its final adjournment, a proper person to fill said vacancy, unless such vacancy occurs within ten days before said final adjournment.

Sec. 15. The Governor may suspend, or arrest any military officer of the State for disobedience of orders, or other military offence; and may remove him in pursuance of the sentence of a Court Martial; and may remove for incompetency or misconduct, all civil officers, who received appointment from the Executive for a term of years.

Sec. 16. The Governor shall convene the Legislature, or the Senate alone, on extraordinary occasions; and whenever, from the presence of an enemy, or from other cause, the Seat of Government shall become an unsafe place for the meeting of the Legislature, he may direct their sessions to be held at some other convenient place.

Sec. 17. To guard against hasty or partial legislation and encroachments of the Legislative Department upon the co-ordinate Executive and Judicial Departments, every bill which shall have passed the House of Delegates and the Senate, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the Governor of the State; if he approve, he shall sign it; but if not, he shall return it with his objections to the House in which it originated, which House shall enter the objections at large on its Journal, and proceed to re-consider the Bill; if after such re-consideration, three-fifths of the members elected to that House shall pass the bill, it shall be sent, with the objections, to the other House, by which it shall likewise be re-considered, and if passed by three-fifths of the members elected to that House, it shall become a Law ; but in all such cases, the votes of both Houses shall be determined by yeas and nays ; and the names of the persons voting for or against the bill, shall be entered on the Journal of each House respectively ; if any bill shall not be returned by the Governor within six days, (Sundays excepted,) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a Law in like manner as if he signed it ; unless the General Assembly shall by adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a Law.

Sec. 18. It shall be the duty of the Governor, semi-annually, and oftener if he deem it expedient, to examine, under oath, the Treasurer and Comptroller of the State, on all matters pertaining to their respective offices, and inspect and review their Bank and other Account Books.

Sec. 19. He shall, from time to time, inform the Legislature of the condition of the State, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he may judge necessary and expedient.

Sec. 20. He shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons except in cases of impeachment, and in cases in which he is prohibited by other Articles of this Constitution ; and to remit fines and forfeitures for offences against the State ; but shall not remit the principal or interest of any debt due the State, except in cases of fines, and forfeitures ; and before granting a nolle prosequi, or pardon, he shall give notice, in one or more newspapers, of the application made for it, and of the day on, or after which, his decision will be given ; and in every case, in which he exercises this power, he shall report to either branch of the Legislature, whenever required, the petitions, recommendations and reasons, which influenced his decision.

Sec. 21. The Governor shall reside at the Seat of Government, and receive for his services an annual salary of four thousand five hundred dollars.

Sec. 22. A Secretary of State shall be appointed by the Governor, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, who shall continue in office, unless sooner removed by the Governor, till the end of the official term of the Governor, from whom he received his appointment, and receive an annual salary of two thousand dollars, and shall reside at the Seat of Government ; and the office of private Secretary shall henceforth cease.

Sec. 23. The Secretary of State shall carefully keep and preserve a record of all official acts and proceedings, (which may at all times be inspected by a Committee of either Branch of the Legislature,) and he shall perform such other duties as may be prescribed by Law, or as may properly belong to his office, together with all clerical duty belonging to the Executive Department.

ARTICLE III.

And the General Assembly shall have power to provide by Law, from time to time, for altering and changing the boundaries of the three existing Legislative Districts of the City of Baltimore, so as to make them, as near as may be, of equal population ; but said Districts shall always consist of contiguous territory.

Sec. 5. That immediately after the taking and publishing of the next National Census, or after any State enumeration of population, as aforesaid, it shall be the duty of the Governor, then being, to arrange the Representation in said House of Delegates, in accordance with the apportionment herein provided for ; and to declare, by Proclamation, the number of Delegates, to which each County, and the City of Baltimore may be entitled, under such apportionment ; and after every National Census, taken thereafter, or after any State enumeration of population thereafter made, it shall be the duty of the Governor, for the time being, to make similar adjustment of Representation, and to declare the same by Proclamation as aforesaid.

Sec. 6. The members of the House of Delegates shall be elected by the qualified voters of the Counties, and the Legislative Districts of Baltimore City, respectively, to serve for two years from the day of their election.

Sec. 8. Immediately after the Senate shall have convened, after the first election under this Constitution, the Senators shall be divided by lot, into two classes, as nearly equal in number as may be—Senators of the first class shall go out of office at the expiration of two years, and Senators shall be elected on the Tuesday next after the first Monday in the month of November, eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, for the term of four years, to supply their places ; so that, after the first election, one-half of the Senators may be chosen every second year. In case the number of Senators be hereafter increased, such classification of the additional Senators shall be made as to preserve, as nearly as may be, an equal number in each class.

Sec. 9. No person shall be eligible as a Senator or Delegate, who at the time of his election, is not a citizen of the State of Maryland, and who has not resided therein, for at least three years, next preceding the day of his election, and the last year thereof, in the County, or in the Legislative District of Baltimore City, which he may be chosen to represent, if such County, or Legislative District of said City, shall have been so long established; and if not, then in the County, or City, from which, in whole, or in part, the same may have been formed; nor shall any person be eligible as a Senator, unless he shall have attained the age of twenty-five years, nor as a Delegate, unless he shall have attained the age of twenty-one years, at the time of his election.

Sec. 12. No Collector, Receiver or Holder of public money shall be eligible as Senator or Delegate, or to any office of profit or trust, under this State, until he shall have accounted for, and paid into the Treasury all sums on the books thereof charged to and due by him.

Sec. 13. In case of death, disqualification, resignation, refusal to act, expulsion, or removal from the county, or city, for which he shall have been elected, of any person, who shall have been chosen as a Delegate, or Senator, or in case of a tie between two or more such qualified persons, a warrant of election shall be issued by the Speaker of the House of Delegates, or President of the Senate, as the case may be, for the election of another person in his place, of which election not less than ten days notice shall be given, exclusive of the day of the publication of the notice, and of the day of election; and, if during the recess of the Legislature, and more than ten days before its termination, such death shall occur, or such resignation, refusal to act, or disqualification, be communicated in writing to the Governor by the person so resigning, refusing, or disqualified, it shall be the duty of the Governor to issue a warrant of election to supply the vacancy thus created, in the same manner the said Speaker or President might have done, during the session of the General Assembly; provided, however, that unless a meeting of the General Assembly may intervene, the election thus ordered to fill such vacancy, shall be held on the day of the ensuing election for Delegates and Senators.

Sec. 14. The General Assembly shall meet on the first Wednesday of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-eight, and on the same day in every second year thereafter, and at no other time, unless convened by Proclamation of the Governor.

Sec. 15. The General Assembly may continue its session so long, as, in its judgment, the public interest may require, for a period not longer than ninety days; and each member thereof, shall receive a compensation of five dollars per diem, for every day he shall attend the session; but not for such days as he may be absent, unless absent on account of sickness, or by leave of the House of which he is a member; and he shall also receive such mileage as may be allowed by Law, not exceeding twenty cents per mile; and the presiding officer of each House shall receive an additional compensation of three dollars per day. When the General Assembly shall be convened by Proclamation of the Governor, the session shall not continue longer than thirty days; and in such case the compensation shall be the same as herein prescribed.

Sec. 16. No book, or other printed matter, not appertaining to the business of the session, shall be purchased, or subscribed for, for the use of the members of the General Assembly, or be distributed among them, at the public expense.

Sec. 17. No Senator or Delegate, after qualifying as such, notwithstanding he may thereafter resign, shall during the whole period of time for which he was elected, be eligible to any office, which shall have been created, or the salary or profits of which shall have been increased during such term.

Sec. 18. No Senator, or Delegate shall be liable in any civil action, or criminal prosecution whatever, for words spoken in debate.

Sec. 19. Each House shall be judge of the qualifications and elections of its members as prescribed by the Constitution and Laws of the State; shall appoint its own officers, determine the rules of its own proceedings, punish a member for disorderly or disrespectful behaviour, and with the consent of two-thirds of its whole number of members elected, expel a member; but no member shall be expelled a second time for the same offence.

Sec. 20. A majority of the whole number of members elected to each House shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner, and under such penalties, as each House may prescribe.

Sec. 21. The doors of each House, and of the Committee of the Whole, shall be open, except when the business is such as ought to be kept secret.

Sec. 22. Each House shall keep a Journal of its proceedings, and cause the same to be published. The yeas and nays of members on any question shall, at the call of any five of them in the House of Delegates, or one in the Senate, be entered on the Journal.

Sec. 23. Each House may punish by imprisonment, during the session of the General Assembly, any person, not a member, for disrespectful or disorderly behaviour in its presence, or for obstructing any of its proceedings, or any of its officers in the execution of their duties; provided, such imprisonment shall not, at any one time, exceed ten days.

Sec. 24. The House of Delegates may inquire, on the oath of witnesses, into all complaints, grievances and offences, as the Grand Inquest of the State, and may commit any person, for any crime, to the public jail, there to remain until discharged by due course of Law. They may examine and pass all accounts of the State, relating either to the collection or expenditure of the Revenue, and appoint Auditors to state and adjust the same. They may call for all public, or official papers and records, and send for persons whom they may judge necessary, in the course of their inquiries, concerning affairs relating to the public interest, and may direct all office bonds which shall be made payable to the State, to be sued for any breach thereof; and with the view to the more certain prevention, or correction of the abuses in the expenditures of the money of the State, the General Assembly shall create, at every Session thereof, a Joint Standing Committee of the Senate and House of Delegates, who shall have power to send for persons, and examine them on oath, and call for public or official papers and records, and whose duty shall be to examine and report upon all contracts made for printing, stationery, and purchases for the public offices and the Library, and all expenditures therein, and upon all matters of alleged abuse in expenditures, to which their attention may be called by Resolution of either House of the General Assembly.

Sec. 25. Neither House shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, at any one time, nor

Sec. 26. The House of Delegates shall have the sole power of impeachment in all cases ; but a majority of all the members elected must concur in the impeachment. All impeachments shall be tried by the Senate, and when sitting for that purpose, the Senators shall be on oath, or affirmation, to do justice according to the law and the evidence ; but no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of all the Senators elected.

Sec. 27. Any bill may originate in either House of the General Assembly, and be altered, amended or rejected by the other ; but no bill shall originate in either House during the last ten days of the session, unless two-thirds of the members elected thereto shall so determine by yeas and nays ; nor shall any bill become a Law, until it be read on three different days of the session in each House, unless two-thirds of the members elected to the House, where such bill is pending, shall so determine by yeas and nays ; and no bill shall be read a third time until it shall have been actually engrossed for a third reading.

Sec. 28. No bill shall become a Law unless it be passed in each House by a majority of the whole number of members elected, and on its final passage the yeas and nays be recorded ; nor shall any Resolution, requiring the action of both Houses, be passed except in the same manner.

Sec. 29. The style of all Laws of this State shall be, " Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland," and all Laws shall be passed by original bill ; and every Law enacted by the General Assembly, shall embrace but one subject, and that shall be described in its title ; and no Law, nor section of a Law, shall be revived, or amended by reference to its title, or section only ; nor shall any Law be construed, by reason of its title, to grant powers, or confer rights which are not expressly contained in the body of the Act ; and it shall be the duty of the General Assembly, in amending any article or section of the Code of Laws of this State, to enact the same, as the said article or section would read when amended. And whenever the General Assembly shall enact any Public General Law, not amendatory of any Section or Article in the said Code, it shall be the duty of the General Assembly to enact the same, in articles and sections, in the same manner as the Code is arranged, and to provide for the publication of all additions and alterations which may be made to the said Code.

Sec. 30. Every bill, when passed by the General Assem-

Sec. 31. No Law passed by the General Assembly shall take effect until the first day of June, next after the session at which it may be passed, unless it be otherwise expressly declared therein.

Sec. 32. No money shall be drawn from the Treasury of the State by any order or resolution, nor except in accordance with an appropriation by Law, and every such Law shall distinctly specify the sum appropriated, and the object to which it shall be applied; provided, that nothing herein contained shall prevent the General Assembly from placing a contingent fund at the disposal of the Executive, who shall report to the General Assembly, at each session, the amount expended, and the purposes to which it was applied. An accurate statement of the receipts and expenditures of the public money, shall be attached to, and published with the Laws, after each regular session of the General Assembly.

The General Assembly, at its first session after the adoption of this Constitution, shall pass General Laws, providing for the cases enumerated in this section, which are not already adequately provided for, and for all other cases, where a General Law can be made applicable.

Sec. 34. No debt shall be hereafter contracted by the General Assembly, unless such debt shall be authorized by a Law providing for the collection of an annual tax, or taxes, sufficient to pay the interest on such debt, as it falls due; and also, to discharge the principal thereof, within fifteen years from the time of contracting the same; and the taxes laid for this purpose shall not be repealed, or applied to any other object, until the said debt, and interest thereon, shall be fully discharged. The credit of the State shall not in any manner be given, or loaned to, or in aid of any individual association or corporation, nor shall the General Assembly have the power, in any mode, to involve the State in the construction of Works of Internal Improvement, nor in granting any aid thereto, which shall involve the faith or credit of the State, nor make any appropriation therefor, except in aid of the construction of Works of Internal Improvement in the counties of St. Mary's, Charles and Calvert, which have had no direct advantage from such Works, as have been heretofore aided by the State; and provided, that such aid, advances, or appropriations, shall not exceed in the aggregate the sum of five hundred thousand dollars. And they shall not use, or appropriate the proceeds of the Internal Improvement Companies, or of the State tax now levied, or which may hereafter be levied, to pay off the public debt, to any other purpose, until the interest and debt are fully paid, or the sinking fund shall be equal to the amount of the outstanding debt; but the General Assembly may, without laying a tax, borrow an amount never to exceed fifty thousand dollars, to meet temporary deficiencies in the Treasury, and may contract debts to any amount that may be necessary for the defence of the State.

Sec. 35. No extra compensation shall be granted, or allowed by the General Assembly to any public officer, agent, servant or contractor, after the service shall have been rendered, or the contract entered into; nor shall the salary, or compensation of any public officer be increased, or diminished during his term of office.

The General Assembly may propose Amendments to this Constitution; provided, that each Amendment shall be embraced in a separate Bill, embodying the Article or Section, as the same will stand when amended and passed by three-fifths of all the members elected to each of the two Houses, by yeas and nays, to be entered on the Journals with the proposed Amendment. The Bill, or Bills proposing Amendment, or Amendments, shall be published, by order of the Governor, in at least two newspapers in each County where so many may be published, and where not more than one may be published, then in that newspaper, and in three newspapers published in the City of Baltimore, one of which shall be in the German language, once a week, for at least three months preceding the next ensuing general election, at which the said proposed Amendment, or Amendments shall be submitted, in a form to be prescribed by the General Assembly, to the qualified voters of the State for adoption or rejection. The votes cast for and against said proposed Amendment, or Amendments, severally, shall be returned to the Governor, in the manner prescribed in other cases; and if it shall appear to the Governor that a majority of the votes cast at said election on said Amendment, or Amendments, severally, were cast in favor thereof, the Governor shall, by his Proclamation, declare the said Amendment, or Amendments, having received said majority of votes, to have been adopted by the people of Maryland as part of the Constitution thereof; and thenceforth said Amendment, or Amendments shall be part of the said Constitution. When two or more Amendments shall be submitted, in manner aforesaid, to the voters of this State at the same election, they shall be so submitted as that each Amendment shall be voted on separately.

Each County and Legislative District of the City of Baltimore shall have in such Convention, a number of Delegates equal to its representation in both Houses at the time the Convention is called. But any Constitution, or Change, or Amendment, of the existing Constitution, which may be adopted by such Convention, shall be submitted to the voters of this State, and shall have no effect unless the same shall have been adopted by a majority of the voters voting thereon.

Sec. 9. The Term of Office of all Judges and other Officers, for whose election provision is made by this Constitution, shall, except in cases otherwise expressly provided herein, commence from the time of their election; and all such Officers shall qualify as soon after their election as practicable, and shall enter upon the duties of their respective offices immediately upon their qualification; and the term of office of the State Librarian and of the Commissioner of the Land Office shall commence from the time of their appointment.

Sec. 10. Any Officer elected, or appointed in pursuance of the provisions of this Constitution, may qualify, either according to the existing provisions of Law in relation to officers under the present Constitution, or before the Governor of the State, or before any Clerk of any Court of Record in any part of the State; but in case an officer shall qualify out of the County, in which he resides, an official copy of his oath shall be filed and recorded in the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of the County, in which he may reside, or in the Clerk's Office of the Superior Court of the City of Baltimore, if he shall reside therein.

It shall be the duty of the Judges of Election, in the said City, and in the several Counties of the State, to receive, accurately count, and duly return the number of ballots, so cast for, or against the adoption of this Constitution, as well as any blank ballots, which may be cast, to the several Clerks of the Circuit Courts of this State, and to the Clerk of the Superior Court of Baltimore City, in the manner, now prescribed by Law, in reference to the election of members of the House of Delegates, and duplicates thereof directly to the Governor; and the several Clerks aforesaid, shall return to the Governor, within ten days after said election, the number of ballots cast for or against the Constitution, and the number of blank ballots; and the Governor, upon receiving the returns, (from the Judges of election, or the Clerks as aforesaid,) and ascertaining the aggregate vote throughout the State, shall, by his Proclamation, make known the same; and if a majority of the votes cast shall be for the adoption of this Constitution, it shall go into effect on Saturday, the Fifth day of October, eighteen hundred and sixty-seven.

ANNAPOLIS:
GEORGE COLTON, PRINTER TO THE CONVENTION
1867.

OF THE

Committee on Public Works and Corporations.

The Committee appointed under the following order, to wit: By the Convention,

Ordered, That the Committee upon Public Works and Corporations be instructed to investigate such of the proceedings of the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore as may be deemed necessary by said Committee, and particularly relative to the endorsement by the city of Baltimore of the Union Railroad Company's bonds, and to the building of a new City Hall; and that John H. Barnes, Outerbridge Horsey, and Fendall Marbury, members of said Committee, be a Subcommittee to proceed to Baltimore and there make the investigation.

By order,

MILTON Y. KIDD, Sec'y.

Having discharged the duties imposed upon them under the foregoing order, beg leave to submit the following as the conclusion reached from the investigation, and ask leave to be discharged from the further consideration of the subject:

By an Act of the General Assembly of Maryland, passed February 6th, 1866, chapter 119, the Union Railroad Company of Baltimore was incorporated with power to construct a road from the Relay House, on the Northern Central Railroad, to tidewater at Canton, with lateral roads to the city of Baltimore. By the Act of 1867 a change was made in the route, but in no other particular was the charter changed by that Act.

The charter makes the capital of the Company six hundred thousand dollars, represented by shares of the par value of one hundred dollars each, with a provision that so soon as fifteen hundred shares were subscribed, and one dollar paid on each, the stockholders were authorized to organize the Company and exercise the powers granted in the charter. The initial steps thus pointed out were observed, and subscription books opened, conformable to law, and sixteen hundred and four shares being subscribed, the Company, in due form of law, was organized.

The following is a list of the subscribers' names and the amount taken by each, and also the amount paid:

From the foregoing it will be seen that one hundred and four shares, amounting to ten thousand four hundred dollars, covers the individual and firm subscriptions; the residue is by incorporated companies, there still remaining four hundred and thirty-nine thousand six hundred dollars of the authorized capital untaken.

The 5th Section of the Act of 1866, chapter 119, authorizes the collection of their subscription as other debts are collected, or the Company may, in its discretion, remit all subscriptions.

The power to raise money for the construction of the road, and the method indicated, are found in the 2d, 3d, 5th and 11th Sections of the Act of Incorporation. The Sections are as follows:

SECTION 2. And be it enacted, That the capital stock of said Company shall be six hundred thousand dollars, in shares of one hundred dollars each; and as soon as fifteen hundred shares are subscribed, the subscribers, their successors and assigns, shall be and they are hereby declared to be, incorporated into a Company by the name of the Union Railroad Company of Baltimore, and by that name shall be capable in law of purchasing, holding, selling, leasing and conveying estates, real, personal and mixed, so far as shall be necessary.

for the purpose herein mentioned, and no further, and shall have perpetual succession; and by said corporate name may sue and be sued, and may have and use a common seal, which they shall have power to alter and renew at their pleasure; and shall have, enjoy, and may exercise all the rights and privileges which other corporate bodies may lawfully do for the purposes herein mentioned.

SEC. 3. And be it enacted, That the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore, the Northern Central Railroad Company, the Western Maryland Railroad Company, and the Canton Company, and any other corporation chartered by this State, may, and they are hereby fully authorized and empowered, severally and respectively, each on its own account, to subscribe, as corporations, to the capital stock of said Company, which subscriptions shall be made for the said Mayor and City Council by ordinance, and by the other corporations in the manner in which other corporate acts are by them respectively performed; and the first subscriptions of the said corporations shall not be deemed to exhaust the power, but each of the said corporations may make other and further subscriptions, if they consider the same expedient and proper; and the said Mayor and City Council may from time to time borrow money, or issue certificates of indebtedness, to meet any instalments of subscription, and each of said corporations is authorized to issue its bonds to the amount necessary to meet such subscriptions, and to secure such bonds by mortgage or otherwise.

SEC. 5. And be it enacted, That upon every such subscription there shall be paid at the time of subscribing, to the Commissioners, or their agents appointed to receive such subscriptions, to the sum of one dollar per share, and the residue thereof shall be paid in such instalments, and at such times as may be required by the President and Directors of said Company; Provided, That not more than one-half of such subscriptions be demanded in any one year from the commencement of the work, nor any payment demanded until at least thirty days public notice of such demand be given by the said President and Directors, by advertisement published at least once a week for three weeks, in two of the Baltimore papers; and if any subscriber shall fail or neglect to pay any instalments thus demanded for the space of sixty days next after the same shall be due and payable, the stock upon which the same shall be demanded, shall be forfeited to the Company, and may be sold to the said President and Directors for the benefit of the Company ; but the President and Directors may proceed for the collection of the same as in cases of other debts, or may remit such subscription or such forfeiture as they may deem proper.

Sec. 11. And be it enacted, That if the subscription obtained be insufficient, the President and Directors, or a majority of them, may issue the bonds of said Company to an amount not exceeding the capital stock authorized by this Act, and may secure the same by mortgage or mortgages upon the property, franchises and revenues of the Company.

The Mayor and City Council of Baltimore, by ordinance approved ———, 1867, undertook to guarantee five hundred thousand dollars of the bonds of the Company. The power thus to act has been questioned, and we think upon sufficient grounds.

Power is given in clear and unmistakable terms in the 3d Section of the Act, to several incorporated companies and to the municipality of Baltimore City to subscribe to the capital stock of the Company, but there is no power conferred upon Baltimore City, or any other corporation, to endorse or guarantee their mortgage bonds. It has been alleged that the 6th Section of the Act when construed in connection with the title of the Bill confers by implication this power. The provisions of the law relied upon as giving the power to endorse, read as follows :

Sec. 6. And be it enacted, That the affairs of the said Company shall be managed by a President and Board of Directors and such other officers and agents as such President and Directors may deem necessary ; that there shall be one Director for each five hundred shares of stock subscribed, and also an additional Director on the part of the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore, or any other corporation, for each one hundred thousand dollars of the bonds of said Company, which may be endorsed or guaranteed by the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore, or said other corporation, that if any corporation, including the said Mayor and City Council, shall become subscribers to the said capital stock, to the extent of five hundred shares or more, such corporation shall be represented in the Board of Directors, so long as it is the holder of such stock by one Director for each five hundred of such shares, to be appointed in the manner set forth in the 4th Section of this Act.

TITLE—AN ACT

To incorporate the Union Rail Road Company of Baltimore, and to authorize the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore, the Northern Central and the Western Maryland Railroad Companies, and the Canton Company, to subscribe for the capital stock thereof, and to endorse the mortgage bonds of said Company, passed by the General Assembly of Maryland, January Session, 1866.

It will be seen that the section just quoted, refers to the mode of appointing Directors in the Company, and incidentally provides that in addition to the Directors which Baltimore City may have to represent any stock it may own, it shall also be entitled to one additional Director "for each one hundred thousand dollars of the bonds of said Company which may be endorsed or guaranteed by the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore."

At the time of the passage of the Act, nothing more than a subscription to the stock of the Company was contemplated; and the 6th Section, above quoted, looks, no doubt, to a subsequent Act of the Legislature authorizing the City to endorse the bonds, and anticipating such action, provision is made for Directors to represent any increased interest whenever it should occur. The projectors of this enterprise, no doubt, foresaw the uncertainty of getting stock subscriptions adequate to furnish the work, but felt quite sure if the City of Baltimore could be induced to make a large subscription to the capital stock, it would feel the necessity of coming forward in the end and endorsing enough of the bonds of the Company to complete the work, such action would be necessary in order to save the sum invested in the stock of the Company, and in this way the burthen of carrying this enterprise through, would fall upon the tax payers of Baltimore City.

The capital of the Company is limited to six hundred thousand dollars ; the intention evidently was to direct the use of the sum derived from stock subscriptions, before a resort was had to the credit of the Company, and if found inadequate, then an issue of bonds might be resorted to ; this is the obvious intent of the 11th Section of the Charter. It reads as follows : " That if the subscriptions obtained be insufficient, the President and Directors, or a majority of them, may issue the bonds of said Company to an amount not exceeding the capital stock authorized by this Act, and may secure the same by mortgage upon the property, franchises and revenues of the Company."

The policy and practice of the State has been to require that all Stock Companies shall have a real and substantial capital value, and it has never encouraged corporate enterprises predicated simply upon debt. In the case of the Union Railroad Company now under consideration, a real Stock basis of $600,000 was doubtless contemplated. The capital thus authorized was intended to be first applied to the construction of a Railroad as far as might answer that purpose, some real and tangible value would thus be created upon which to predicate a loan. But in the absence of such a basis of values, it is difficult to see what the Company could have to mortgage as a security for an issue of $500,000 of bonds, and yet this is just what has been done. The entire enterprise (saving the meagre stock subscriptions obtained) and upon which there has been but one dollar paid in, is predicated upon nothing but bonded debt.

Much of the growth and prosperity of our State, and the onward march of the City of Baltimore in numbers and wealth is due to the successful prosecution of our works of internal improvement, and it is now a well accepted fact, that no community can hope for prosperity if its people are indifferent to the facilities necessary to afford certain, rapid and cheap intercourse, and interchange of the products of industry ; for it is by such means that vast treasures of wealth are brought into the commerce of the world and made to contribute to the general happiness and progress of man, which otherwise would remain valueless.

The magnitude of such undertakings, however, not unfrequently exceeds individual means, and hence the necessity for Acts of incorporation, uniting and centralizing individual efforts and capital in order to secure the successful accomplishment of such enterprises. The aid of States and Cities have, at times, been invoked and properly given to secure prompt success, and benefits have resulted far in excess of the temporary inconveniences resulting from the non-ability of such undertakings in the beginning to be fully productive. While these things are true, still there is a great necessity for caution, and for legislative restraints, lest communities through the snares of the wily and the designing, and by the recklessness of others should become dangerously involved in debts beyond their means to pay without great suffering and hardship, and thereby cause alarm, when capital to escape the burthens of taxation takes flight, and thus an obstacle to success is created instead of the promised good.

The Legislature has for wise purposes ever been cautious in granting power to one Corporation to participate in the affairs of another or become responsible for debts not properly its own, and whenever this policy has been departed from, it has been by the most open and direct means, and the authority so to act is couched in terms neither doubtful nor implied. The necessity for such a course is apparent in order to protect the public against the possibility of frauds, and hold in restraint the constant tendency of Municipal and other Corporations, to pervert and abuse their legitimate authority in doing by indirect means that which they could not obtain authority to accomplish by an open and direct appeal to the Legislature of the State. All such Acts are of evil tendency, and against the spirit of the law; and to which no citizen can lend himself and claim an immunity from rebuke and a just public censure, even though he may escape punishment by the law.

In respect to the new City Hall now in progress, for full details the Committee visited the office of Mr. Frederick, architect, who exhibited and explained the details and designs of his plan for a new City Hall, which has been approved and adopted by the Commissioners charged with the erection of the building.

The designs contemplate a building of great beauty of style and proportions, and of imposing magnificence, combined with durability and ample accommodations for the present and growing wants of the city.

It is designed to cover the square bounded by Holliday, Fayette, North and Lexington streets, and is two hundred and thirty-one feet by one hundred and fifty feet from Holliday to North streets. The designs contemplate a building three stories high, with interior courts, a central and spacious Rotunda, with dome 234 feet high, with a large number of conveniently arranged apartments, adapted to every present and anticipated wants, with stairways and corridors appropriate and in full proportion to the interior arrangements.

The outer walls are designed to be faced with well selected and durable white marble, skillfully wrought, while iron trusses and groins of masonry support the floors, and will give great firmness and durability, as well as much security against fire.

The Committee are free to say that if the financial condition of the city justified the expenditure, the building contemplated is appropriate, and such as is required by the wants of a city of increasing numbers and wealth.

But when we consider the magnitude of the city debt, and the consequent burthens of taxations weighing down the industry of our people and paralyzing their energies, and that, too, when great financial troubles are impending and the substance of our people is wasting away and values changing, however gratifying it might be to our feelings and our city pride to have such a hall, we are admonished that this is not the time to embark in such expensive enterprise.

The existing corporate debt of Baltimore city gathered from information obtained from the City Comptroller, appears to be as follows :

Great abuses of power and public confidence have grown up in our city management. With a shameful disregard of the true intention of government and the interest of the citizen and tax payer, large sums of money have been drawn from the City Treasury, merely to bestow patronage upon partisan favorites. The Councils have sanctioned the clandestine use of large sums of money without accountability, and for unworthy purposes; and in this way much of the city debt, and also a large proportion of the annual expenses of the City Government have been brought about. Cases of individual corruption were indicated to the Committee, but they did not feel themselves at liberty under the order of the Convention, to investigate them, because it would have involved more time than was deemed necessary to bestow, in establishing by official testimony that which is so currently reported, and we think, with just foundation, believed.

Economy in government is at all times a commendable virtue; at the present it rises to a point of importance never before felt by our people. It is an essential necessity to save us from pecuniary suffering, if not from hopeless bankruptcy. But in the midst of this startling condition of things, the sad experience comes home to us that economy in the use of public money, is a virtue seldom cultivated, and still more rarely practiced.

The hands of those controlling city affairs, judging from past records, know no restraint, and seem lost to the virtue of economy. Where the public treasury is open to the cupidity of the unscrupulous, and not guarded by moral integrity there is little hope for the tax payer.

The Mayor and City Council, by ordinance approved September 25th, 1865, provided for the appointment of Commissioners, who were authorized to adopt plans, and proceed to the erection of the new City Hall; and the same ordinance directs the Commissioners of Finance to issue five hundred thousand dollars of city bonds, and dispose of them at market rates, and apply the proceeds to this purpose.

The Eleventh Section of this Ordinance required that it should not go into effect until authority was obtained from the General Assembly of Maryland to issue these bonds. In 1866 the Legislature gave their sanction to the issue of six hundred thousand dollars, and therefore and to that extent the authority of the Mayor and City Council is undoubted, and had the cost of the building in all its parts and furnishings, when completely finished, been limited to the amount realized from the sale of the bonds authorized to be sold, their legal rights could not have been doubted. But the plan adopted will far exceed the amount authorized by the Ordinance or by the approving act of the Legislature of 1866, chapter 1.

The architect's estimated cost is eight hundred thousand dollars, if his plans are adhered to, and proper economy practiced. Such a hope, however, is, we think, a vain delusion, and if the work progresses at all in these expensive times of building, but little less than a million and a half of dollars may confidently be expected as the final cost.

We can hardly suppose, nor do we believe, that the powers granted in the Ordinance of 1865, to use for this purpose half a million of bonds, ever authorized the mere beginning of a building, the ultimate cost of which was to greatly exceed the amount set apart, and beyond which they had no right to go. The sum appropriated contemplated payment in full for a finished building, not to lay the foundation and rear outer walls, merely or partially construct the edifice, but to finish it in all its detail and in every part. If any other purpose was contemplated it does not appear upon the face of the law, and the Commissioners are not at liberty to go beyond its clear requirements, nor could the Mayor and City Council grant any powers to them in the premises not previously authorized by the Legislature.

The Mayor and City Council in their powers are limited by Legislative enactments, and the Commissioners are limited by the ordinance, and neither can go beyond them. If the Commissioners appointed under the Ordinance of 1865, or the Mayor and City Council had the power to exceed the sum authorized, then they could as well have proceeded without any authority. To exceed the law is as grave an offence as to proceed without law, and to do so is so grave an offence that the seal of public condemnation should be set upon all who participate in it.

The continued increase of the debt of Baltimore City is a subject of painful anxiety to its citizens. Each returning year has brought its augmentation, until now the burthens are intolerable, and its effect must be disastrous to the prosperity of the City and to the State also. From the fear of heavy taxation, capital will shun us, personal property will hide itself, and thereby the basis of taxation will diminish while the debt increases, and thus the burthen must, and will, in the end, fall with crushing weight upon real estate.

The effect of public debt upon communities, is the same as debt upon individuals. It shuts the door of hope—dispirits and paralyzes their energies. A public debt is a public calamity that curses the living, and wastes the estate of the dead. Its enormity at this time in the several departments of our government, is a source of serious alarm to the prudent and thoughtful. So great is the debt of the Federal and State Governments, that when added to those of a local and municipal character, an army of agents and tax-gatherers, at great expense to the people, have to be maintained to gather from them the means to pay the interest, much less the principal. Every branch of industry feels the burthen; every transaction, great or small, has some burthen upon it; property is burthened; the earnings of toil, whether of body or mind, is visited; the home that shelters is taxed; the garments we wear are taxed; the bread that satisfies our hunger is taxed; everything is taxed. No man is so much dreaded and shunned as the tax-gatherer. The rich hide themselves to escape his inquisitorial visits. The poor meet him with sad and angry countenance. His presence is everywhere and among all men, like the blight that kills and the pestilence that desolates, and leaves little else than grief and suffering.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
